EXPLOSION OF ENGINE KILLS 5 ON FREIGHT

Locomotive Blast Flattens Trees for 300 Yards, 10 Cars Demolished.

24 ON INJURED LISTS

Montana, scene of two recent train wrecks, counted more dead today—the result of a train wreck and an airplane crash.

In the two accidents, six were killed and 24 injured.

A woman was killed and nine persons were injured when a Northwest Airlines transport, carrying eight passengers and a crew of two crashed at the end of the airport in Billings as it started its take-off.

5 Die, 15 Hurt.

Five persons were killed and 15 injured when a Northern Pacific freight locomotive exploded in Hell Gate canyon, 27 miles east of Missoula.

United Press reports said the locomotive blast flattened trees for 300 yards on either side of the track, hurled heavy steel plates over the train and onto a highway 100 yards distant and demolished 10 cars. The wreckage of the engine, one of the largest freight types built, was blown into the Clark Fork river.

A worker in a powerhouse a mile away, one of the first to reach the scene, said the engine exploded before leaving the rails.

Rushed to Scene.

An emergency crew was dispatched to the scene of the wreck as soon as it had been reported. Six of the injured were taken to the Northern Pacific hospital at Missoula for treatment.

Mrs. N. S. Mackay of Evanston, Ill., died at St. Vincent's hospital in Billings shortly after the plane crash. Her husband was in the hospital but the extent of his injuries was not known.

Mrs. W. J. Tisdale of Sloan, B. C., also was being treated at the hospital. The other passengers and crew members were released after treatment.

SAWYER AIDES

Three in County to Direct Primary Campaign.

G. A. Baer, Mansfield, former Richland county Democratic executive committee chairman, today had been chosen by Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, to head the Sawyer campaign for governor in Richland county.

Baer said he would be assisted by Atty. John C. O'Donnell and John F. Correll. Correll is president of the Young Democratic club in the county.

Plans for the campaign, which will bring Sawyer here for a talk before the Aug. 9 election, will be formulated at a meeting next week, Baer said. Campaign headquarters probably will be set up within the next few days, Baer added.

OK'S RATE HIKE

State Grants 5 Per Cent Boost In Pullman Car Charge.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The Ohio Public Utilities commission today authorized the Pullman company to increase sleeping and parlor car rates, except for upper berths, five per cent, effective Aug. 1.

No application has yet been filed by the steam railroads for an increase in intrastate rates from 2 to 2½ cents a mile, already granted by the Interstate Commerce commission for interstate rates.

PANTS ON FIRE

But Fireman Sticks To Duty; Coat Covers Him.

PERRY, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Volunteer Fireman Hubert Harter's pants caught fire while he was fighting a junk yard blaze.

So he stepped out of his pants and fought the fire for four hours.

P. S.: The pants burned.

Michigan Killer Hangs, 1st to Die In 108 Years

He Denies It

Prince Frederick of Prussia, 26 and a bachelor, the grandson of the former German kaiser, says he isn't the "gentleman in London" Count Court von Haugwitz-Reventlow wanted to "shoot like a dog" because of attentions the Prince had paid to the Countess, the former Barbara Hutton. Prince Frederick said he "merely knew" Barbara, and wasn't in love with her.

Execution Staged In Spite of Protests Sent Roosevelt.

GRINS AT NOOSE

Slayer Pays With Life For Murder During Bank Hold-up.

(By International News Service)

Tony Chebatoris, a cool killer, died as calmly as he killed in the first execution held on Michigan soil since 1830, when an inn keeper named Simmons was hanged for slaying his wife.

The federal execution was held despite Gov. Frank Murphy's fight to have Chebatoris moved to another state for execution and President Roosevelt's request that the department of justice do everything in its power to move the gunman who shot down Henry Porter during a bank holdup in Midland last September 29.

Manacled, Chebatoris walked calmly behind United States Marshal John J. Barc and Prison Warden John J. Ryan 150 feet from his second-story cell to the canvas shed in which the 18-foot gallows stood.

The man who defied authority, who said after his arrest "there should be more communists with guns," and who read books on atheism, socialism and communism in his jail cell, walked to death with a sardonic grin.

He mounted the 13 steps to the gallows steadily. His eyes were a bit misty as he stood on the white line marked for him on the steel doors of the trap, but he looked each of the 23 official witnesses in the eye.

He left his cell at 5:02 a. m., stood on the trap at 5:05 a. m., dropped through the trap at 5:08 and was pronounced dead at 5:21.

In the three minutes he stood with uncovered head on the trap he showed little emotion except for the grin, which faded twice into a sickly, beaten look.

At the end, however, he was grinning, talking to G. Phil Hanna, the 64-year-old White county farmer who has made hanging his hobby and who provided the trap, the noose, the hood and the leather straps that bound Chebatoris' elbows, knees and ankles.

Despite protests from Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, Anthony Chebatoris, right, bank robber who killed a man during a hold-up, died on the gallows at Milan, Mich., today. The hanging was the first in Michigan in 108 years. Michigan law does not provide capital punishment but Chebatoris was convicted under a federal statute. The Michigan governor's request to have the execution moved to another state was futile. Sheriff Ira Smith, who sprung the trap, is shown at the left.

FOURTH VICTIM OF CRASH DIES

Clevelander, Hurt Week Ago, Succumbs; Unconscious Since Accident.

The sixth traffic fatality in Richland county within the past week was recorded today with the death at General hospital of L. C. Belding, 49, of Cleveland, who was injured in last Friday's three-car crash on Ashland road, northeast of Mansfield.

Richland Traffic County's 1938 Toll
13
This date last year—10

Mr. Belding died of internal injuries. He never regained consciousness after the accident.

His death was the fourth fatality of that accident. It boosted the death toll on Richland county highways to 13 this year. Last year at the same time 10 persons had lost their lives.

Belding with his wife were en route to Mt. Sterling, to spend July Fourth with relatives. They were riding with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell P. Thayer, of Lakewood, when their car was struck by a machine driven by John F. Whyland, a chauffeur from Wickliffe.

Whyland was instantly killed. Thayer's three-month-old son, Neal Weldon, died in the hospital two hours later, and Joseph Murphy, 35, who was riding with Whyland died the following day.

Mr. Belding's body was to be removed to Cleveland today where the funeral will be held.

GIRL DROWNED IN POND

LORAIN—(INS)—Drowned when she fell into a fish pond, 2½-year-old Arlene Cifranic, a niece of Johnnie Risko, former heavyweight boxer, was dead today. The accident occurred in the front yard of Risko's home at Sheffield Lake village, east of here.

RELIEF IN SIGHT

Weatherman Says Showers to Rout Heat; Mercury at 90.

Local thundershowers predicted for tonight and Saturday are expected to rout the heat wave which pushed the mercury up to 90 degrees yesterday and threatened to set a new season's mark this afternoon.

The temperature fell one degree short of the summer's high mark yesterday, but with a start of 86 degrees at noon today was expected to climb to a new high by mid-afternoon. Cooler weather was forecast for Saturday.

The mercury stayed above 65 degrees last night, boosting the average for the past 24 hours to 77.5 degrees, nearly six degrees above normal.

County Agent George B. Ganyard said the heat and clear skies would help to ripen the wheat.

Settlement of School Wrangle Seen After Board 'Cools Off'

Settlement of the wrangle between Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, and members of the county and Union rural school boards who sought to oust him, was predicted today by County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott, after the board members "cool off a bit."

Marriott said he had received no request for an investigation of alleged irregularities in Robinson's office although the county board passed a resolution asking for an investigation two weeks ago.

"Anyway, a probe of an illegal application for federal funds would have to start with state PWA officials and not in this office," Marriott said.

Three members of the Union rural school board and two members of the county board accused Robinson of usurping the authority of the Union board in submitting an unauthorized application for PWA funds for a new school building.

Robinson admitted signing the application, but contended that an architect who drew plans for the building had filled in the application over his (Robinson's) name.

F. W. Hunt and C. G. Tugend, members of the county board, said they would ask for Robinson's resignation if they found he had been guilty of illegal action in submitting the application. Three members of the Union board demanded his resignation two weeks ago.

Protests Fail to Halt Death Plunge

Gas Cut Cent, Rumblings Of 'Price War' Are Heard

Reduction General to "Meet Local Conditions"; Independents Agree on Drop of Half-Cent.

Gas prices dropped a cent in Mansfield today, and there were rumblings that a gas "price war" might be in the making.

The reduction was general, being made by both independent stations and those owned or leased by the large companies.

Standard Oil stations reduced prices for high test gas to 19½ cents, from 20½, and "regular" gas was selling for 17½ cents instead of 18½.

Members of the Independent Gasoline Retailers association met this morning, and agreed to cut prices a half cent per gallon.

Independents Cent Higher.

Prices at stations operated by members of the association are now 18½ and 20½ cents per gallon, for regular and high test, according to W. D. Clause, a director of the association.

The first reduction, it was learned today, was made by the two Fair Price stations, which cut prices last Wednesday to 16½ cents a gallon. These stations charge a cent less than the others.

Paul Detwiler, manager of a Fair Price station, said the reduction was effected to "meet local conditions."

John B. Coleman, Mansfield division manager of the Standard Oil company, said today he had ordered the reduction at all Mansfield Standard Oil stations today to "meet local business conditions." He said he did not know what action had been taken by any other dealers.

Clause, speaking for the association, said a recent bulk price reduction made it possible for members to cut retail prices half cent, but said they would make no further reductions.

WIN 2 TO ONE, DAVEY BOASTS

He'll Get History-Making Majority, He Tells Athens.

ATHENS—(U.P.)—Governor Martin L. Davey predicted he will win nomination by vote two or three to one, and fall election by largest majority in Ohio history in an address here last night.

Although in a mining county that has more than 5,000 CIO members, Davey continued his attack against John L. Lewis. Charging that mine union president plotted "civil war and rebellion at Youngstown. Hundreds upon hundreds of workmen would have been slaughtered—slaughtered by each other—had not troops been sent," he said.

Davey reviewed the administration of relief for which he said 65 million has been provided in last three years without any extra taxes.

DEATH DATE SET

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Federal Judge John P. Barnes today ordered that John Henry Seadlund die in the electric chair July 14 for the kidnap-slaying of Charles Ross, wealthy retired manufacturer of greeting cards and valentines.

Weds, Shoots Self Few Hours Later

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—(U.P.)—The condition of Mrs. George Mears, 43, who shot herself while near the grave of her mother in a cemetery at Paulding, O., yesterday, was pronounced as critical today. Mrs. Mears shot herself a few hours after she had married her cousin at Celina, O. Her husband could offer no reason for the act.

BUYS ENGINE

The city of Mansfield today bought a new red fire engine to bolster its antiquated fire fighting equipment. It was the first piece of apparatus to be purchased in 15 years.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said the board of control awarded the contract for the new pumper to the Mack-International Motor Truck company of Allentown, Pa., on its second low bid of $8,375. The Buffalo Fire Appliance corporation, Buffalo, N. Y., was low with $8,220.

Styert said the Mack bid was selected as the best because of the universal product which the firm manufactures. Delivery, he said, would probably be made within the next 60 days.

Other bidders on the equipment were Peter Pirsh and Sons, Kenosha, Wis.; American LaFrance and Foamite Industries, Inc., Elmira, N. Y.; Ahearns-Fox company, Cincinnati, and the Seagrave corporation, Columbus, all of whom bid $8,500.

ALL FOUND SAFE

Missing Explorers Sighted From Plane On Colorado Island.

EL PASO, Tex.—(U.P.)—Two members of the U. S. coast guard, who set out in a plane to search for a missing party of scientific adventurers on the Colorado river reported to their commander today that they had communicated with the group and that all were safe.

The fliers telegraphed their commander that they found the explorers 20 miles east of Lee's Ferry, encamped on what appeared to be a small island.

HILDEBRAND MAPS FIGHT TO GET JOB BACK

130 Sign Petition Supporting Former Patrolman Who Quit After Altercation.

MAYOR WILL GET PLEA

Hunter Says He's Not Eligible for Re-instatement, Must Apply Like 'Anyone Else.'

Backed by a petition bearing 130 names, Ralph H. Hildebrand, former Mansfield patrolman, today planned to carry his request for reinstatement to the police force to Mayor C. M. Hunter.

Hildebrand, who resigned in November, 1936, following an altercation with former Police Chief Merle Unkle, has sought reinstatement as an officer for nearly a year, but his application has been ignored by city officials, he contends.

Fails to Pass Exam.

It was reported, however, that he failed to pass a physical examination required of civil service applicants, when he took the examination about four months ago.

Hunter said that he had not yet received Hildebrand's petition although he had talked to the former patrolman concerning the matter when he had called at the mayor's office several days ago.

The mayor explained that Hildebrand had asked for reinstatement and had been told that he would have to make application on the same basis "as anyone else."

More than a year has elapsed since Hildebrand resigned which makes him ineligible for reinstatement under the civil service laws, Hunter said.

Freh H. Huber, chairman of the commission, said no formal request for reinstatement had been made by Hildebrand within the one-year period allowed by law.

Resigned After Fight.

Hildebrand resigned from the police force Nov. 25, 1936, after a fight with Unkle at the police station. He was suspended and charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct by Unkle. Hildebrand swore out an assault and battery charge against the former chief.

Arraigned in municipal court the following day after spending five hours in jail, Hildebrand was convicted on both counts and fined. Five days later he resigned.

Earlier in the year he was suspended 10 days for leaving the city without permission.

Hildebrand's petition, which he circulated himself, contains signatures of representative business and professional men in the city and a number of public officials.

SOUNDS PLEA TO ELECT MEN WHO 'LOOK FORWARD'

Roosevelt Pays Tribute to 'Bob' In Speech Before 100,000 at Marietta; Defends New Deal Policies, Hails 'Protective Statutes' Enacted.

(By United Press)

MARIETTA—Under a blazing Ohio sun, President Roosevelt today called upon the American people to elect "forward looking" representatives to run their government.

A crowd estimated at 100,000 hailed the chief executive in historic Muskingum park here as he fired the first shot in his nationwide offensive on those battlefronts where the philosophy of the New Deal is being challenged in primary contests.

Flanked by opposing Democratic candidates for the senate—former Governor George White and Senator Robert J. Bulkley, an old Harvard classmate—Mr. Roosevelt specifically paid tribute to Bulkley for his work in projecting administration reforms, referring to him affectionately as "Bob."

The president, offering a vigorous verbal defense of his policies, hailed his administration's "protective statutes" as mutual insurance companies that in effect were but a return to the healthy practices of mutual self-help of the early settlers of the northwest.

Stands on Historical Site.

His speech, historical in character, was in connection with the 150th anniversary celebration of the settling of the Northwest territory, which began on the site that now is Marietta.

Before his speaking stand on the spot where, almost 150 years ago, Gen. Arthur W. St. Clair took the oath as first governor of the Northwest teritory, stood a small group of costumed persons wearing the buckskins and homespun clothes of pioneer days.

"Let us not be afraid to help each other," the president told them. "Let us never forget that government is ourselves and not an alien power over us. The ultimate rules of our democracy are not a president and senators and congressmen and government officials but the voters of this country.

"I am sure they (the American people) know we will always have a frontier—of social problems—and that we must always move in and bring law and order to it. In that confidence I am pushing on. I am sure you will push on with me."

The president's visit to Ohio was occasion for a pretentious Democratic holiday. Besides Sen. Bulkley and former Governor White, there were Gov. Martin L. Davey, often at odds with the New Deal, with his escort of state highway patrolmen; and Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman for Ohio and Davey's opponent for the gubernatorial nomination.

Confer on Train.

Before driving through the crowd-lined streets to the park, the president conferred on his train with Bulkley and White, later being joined by Mayor Percy Griffiths of Marietta.

Toward the end of the address a man in the front rank collapsed from the heat as the temperature soared to around 90 degrees. The

MARIETTA—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's speech today at exercises celebrating the 150th anniversary of founding of the first settlement in the Northwest territory: Vincennes, not Marietta.

Here, with all honor to the scouts and the skirmishers, we celebrate the coming of a different type of men and women—the first battalions of that organized army of occupation which transplanted from over the Alleghenies whole little civilizations that took root and grew. They were giving expression to a genius for organized colonization, carefully planned and ordered under law.

Davey Misses Parade, But Gets a Ride With Roosevelt

(By Associated Press)

MARIETTA—Ohio Democrats marshalled their leaders in this historic city today to greet President Roosevelt but Gov. Martin L. Davey failed to reach the special train before the chief executive left for Muskingum park.

The governor's car was blocked at a railroad crossing by the presidential special and his highway patrol detail was unable to get the auto into the procession that wound through Marietta's main streets.

Davey finally joined the presidential party and stood beside the president before he began speaking.

U. S. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley and former Gov. George White greeted the president officially and rode with him in the parade.

Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, Davey's opponent in the Aug. 9 primary for the guerbnatorial nomination, also shook hands with the president as the executive strode down an incline from the end of his train.

Both Sawyer and Davey were on the presidential train as it pulled out for Covington, Ky.

When the speaking was over, and the president returned to his motor car, Davey climbed in, taking the seat that Senator Bulkley had occupied on the trip to the park. There was a brief consultation, and finally all four—the president, Davey, Bulkley and White—squeezed into the rear seat.

At the station, Davey, Bulkley and the president conferred on the train, Bulkley got off, and it left for Covington, with Sawyer and Davey both aboard.

State Authorizes Schools to Put $550,000 Issue on Ballot

The way was opened today for submitting the Mansfield board of education's proposed $550,000 bond issue to voters at the Aug. 9 primary when the state tax commission authorized the board to place the issue on the primary ballot.

The board has purchased about 10 acres of land at Cline avenue and Wood street as a site for a new junior high school building in the event the bond issue is approved and a $450,000 PWA grant is obtained from the federal government.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said the bond issue would require an average levy of .93 of a mill or 83 cents per thousand dollars valuation on property in the city school district over a period of 20 years. The rate would become less, he said, as bonds are retired and interest payments become smaller.

Funds from sale of the bonds would supplement the anticipated PWA grant for the construction of two junior high school buildings, a shop addition at Senior high school and modernization of a number of the city's older elementary buildings.

Plans for a campaign supporting the proposed bond issue will be formulated at a meeting Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms of committees representing organizations interested in the school building plan. The session was called by Mrs. Helen Boals, president of the Mansfield Council of Parent-Teacher associations.

THREE SOCIETIES OF CENTRAL M. E. MEET

Programs of Musical Selections, Papers Presented Before Missionary Groups; Aid Schedules Garden Party, Tea July 29.

THE Home and Foreign Missionary societies and the Ladies Aid society of the Central Methodist Episcopal church held their regular monthly meetings at the church yesterday. The Home society opened the day with a business meeting beginning at 11 a. m. with Mrs. L. F. Rondel, new president, in charge. The worship was presented by Mrs. Alma Frye and the program was directed by Mrs. C. D. Appleman.

She was assisted by Miss Mary Dotson, Miss Virginia Jenkins, Mrs. J. J. Dunn and Miss Vivian Miller. Mrs. Elsie Matti, accompanied by Miss Miller, presented several vocal solos.

Mrs. C. K. Smaltz was hostess for the luncheon which was served at noon, and Mrs. E. C. Jenkins presided over the meeting of the Foreign society. Mrs. W. S. Valmore, who had served as president for 15 years, was presented with a gift from the group.

The worship service was offered by Mrs. C. C. Constance and Mrs. Matti and Mrs. Jenkins, accompanied by Miss Miller, gave a vocal duet. Miss Mary Jane Curtiss then read a pamphlet on "The Forgotten Words." Mite boxes were gathered at this time.

Mrs. Appleman was in charge of the Aid society business meeting and Mrs. Carl Spangler led the devotions. During the meeting it was decided to hold a garden party and tea at the home of Mrs. H. N. Keene, July 29. Mrs. L. H. Jones, Mrs. L. M. Daugherty, Mrs. J. B. Weigel and Mrs. C. E. Frankeberger are the members of the committee in charge.

The three societies will meet again Aug. 4.

BRIDAL VEIL DEPARTURE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Lily Dache defied tradition recently and produced one of the most striking wedding veils of the season. She designed it of delphinium blue chiffon for a New York bride. The veil, worn with a sheer white crepe bridal gown, swung in three train-like streamers from a close-fitting turban of the same material. The bride carried delphiniums.

A LITERARY BELL

PARIS—(AP)—A red leather belt is trimmed with five sections simulating book bindings. These list volumes 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, in gold letters, except that the French word "Tome" does duty for "Volume." For the bookish and non-bookish alike.

Mrs. Matti Talks On Christianity Before 2 Groups

The Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the First Methodist Episcopal church met yesterday in the church parlors for a regular meeting. The brief business meeting of the Foreign society was held first, after which the Home society was in charge with Mrs. R. W. James presiding.

Devotions were read by Mrs. Clyde Richardson and Bobby Baker offered a violin solo, "Sailor Song" by Greig. Mrs. Charles A. Matti, returned missionary from China, discussed the relationship of Christianity and the Chinese war.

The year's work was reviewed and the topic, "Rebuilding the Women's Home Missionary Emblem" was conducted by the officers. Supper was served at the close of the meeting. The groups will again meet Aug. 4 at the church.

The next meeting will be July 21 with Mrs. Clara Calver, South Main street road, with Mrs. Cloyd Fox assisting.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Mid-Season Styles Show Popularity of Light, Dark

FROSTY FASHIONS

Frosty white is a big note in summer fashions. This frock of white rayon crepe, designed with a pleated skirt and topped with a bolero, is worn with color accents. The long fringed ends on the girdle are blue, red and white, while the hat band and boutonniere are blue.

SUMMER STANDBY

One of the summer's standbys—a simple all-around frock—is designed of sheer cross-striped navy blue rayon crepe. Because of its color and weave it can be worn comfortably in both warm and cool weather. Pleating appears both in the cape sleeves and in the skirt, while the vee neckline is piped in white pique.

CIRCLES ENTERTAIN AT PICNIC SESSIONS

Routine Business Follows Luncheons Served at Various Parks to Members of First Presbyterian Church Organizations.

MEMBERS of the five circles of the Women's guild of the First Presbyterian church had regular business meetings yesterday. All but Circle Five held picnics for their members. Circles One and Three met together at South park for luncheon and a business meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnston, Moundsville, Mo., were guests.

Arrangements for the affair were made by the chairmen of the two groups, Mrs. Harvey Lanehart and Mrs. J. B. Lindley. The circles will meet again Aug. 4, but the hostesses were not announced.

There was a short business meeting and contests were conducted following the picnic luncheon served to members of Circle Four when they met at Middle park. The committee in charge included Mrs. J. A. Meredith, Mrs. Robert Campbell, jr., and Mrs. Fern Berry. Mrs. Irl Fisher, Park avenue west road, will be hostess to the group Aug. 4. Circle Two had an evening family picnic at South park.

When Circle Five met at the home of Mrs. W. H. Gifford, 777 Park avenue west, yesterday, there were 30 members and three guests present. Mrs. Earl Ports and Mrs. Barney Banks assisted.

Miss Katherine Hartman gave a talk on her trailer trip. Tea was served at a small table decorated with roses. Mrs. William Weldon and Mrs. W. H. Goodenough poured. The next meeting will be a covered-dish picnic at the home of Mrs. Osborne Meese, Woodland road. Mrs. Merrill Manz and Mrs. G. V. Smith will assist. The hostesses will serve dessert to the members.

PLAN BUSINESS.

The newly appointed committee chairman and the executive board of the Women of the Moose met at the home last night to plan the year's work. Mrs. Grace Koozer will entertain the group at her cottage at Mifflin Lake at an all-day meeting July 28.

Honor Mrs. Schnittke At Card Party, Shower

Mrs. Burke Schnittke was guest of honor last night at a personal shower given at her home, 148 South Diamond street, by six friends. The hostesses were the Misses Irma Mollohan, Arminta Geissinger, Florence Kick, Donna McElroy, Betty Stuhldreher and Jane Weutrich.

There were four tables of cards in play and the honoree and Miss Mary Wehinger were the winners. A color scheme of pink and blue was used on the tables which were centered with a lighted taper. Personal gifts were presented to Mrs. Schnittke.

Alpha Class Hears Talk On McGuffey Club Trip

There were 14 members and seven guests of the Alpha class of St. Matthew's Lutheran church present Wednesday for the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Victor Rinehart, Springmill road. Mrs. J. H. Sheriff, president, conducted the meeting and Mrs. Rosa DeWitt gave an account of the McGuffey club trip to Dearborn, Mich.

A reading was given and contests were conducted. Luncheon was served at a table decorated with garden flowers. The next meeting will be Aug. 3 with Mrs. H. J. Dise, Mifflin township. The affair will be a picnic.

Children eat Kellogg's Rice Krispies without coaxing—and come back for second helpings! Because these toasted rice bubbles actually snap, crackle and pop in milk or cream! Young folks love that toasted, tasty flavor.
Always ready to serve. Rice Krispies are sold by all grocers, served by restaurants. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SHANGHAI RIOT DRAWS PROTEST FROM JAPANESE

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI—Japanese authorities conferred with officers of the United States marines today and, it was reported, protested against the eviction of Japanese gendarmes and plain clothes policemen from the American defense sector of the international settlement.

The protest came at the end of 20 hours of bitter anti-Japanese terrorism carried out by Chinese on the first anniversary of the Chinese-Japanese war. At least eight Japanese and an undetermined number of Chinese had been killed. Many persons were wounded, including a British soldier. Rioting ended today.

Evict Gendarmes.

The marines had evicted Japanese gendarmes and plain clothes police from the American defense sector in the international settlement where the invaders attempted to search Chinese suspects. After that, the sector was closed to all.

The Japanese, angered, retired to the Japanese Hongkew section of the international settlement. Later this morning the Japanese consulate protested to the Shanghai municipal council against the alleged failure of the police to protect Japanese civilians and police agents.

Municipal police authorities then made representations to the Japanese about "unauthorized searches" by armed but ununiformed Japanese soldiers and settlement police took matters into hand. Settlement and French concession forces had been mobilized on the largest scale since the battle for Shanghai last fall.

Authorities said they had evidence that many bombings and assassinations were on an organized basis.

Both Chinese and Japanese reports said, meanwhile, that bitter hand-to-hand fighting was in progress in the Hukow area on the Yangtse river 160 miles below Hankow, the provisional capital.

LISTS EXPENSE

AAA Reports $12,000 Spent in County for Administration.

The federal government spent $12,270 for the administration of the 1936 soils conservation program in Richland county between July 1, 1936, and Feb. 28, 1937, AAA officials reported today.

The amount was less than was spent in any other county in north central Ohio, except Holmes, where only $10,956 was spent.

Approximately 1,500 Richland county farmers received more than $85,000 in crop payments during that period. Most of the money spent for administration went to local farmer committees and field men paid on a day-to-day basis, AAA officials said.

Administration expenses for the other counties in this area included:

Ashland, $15,340; Crawford, $14,257; Huron, $14,473; Morrow, $14,570, and Knox, $17,512.

BURNS KILL GIRL, 10

SALEM—(U.P.)—Mary Chan, 10, of Lisbon, died here today from burns suffered yesterday when a bonfire set her clothing afire. Her mother, Mrs. John Chan, was burned seriously trying to extinguish the flames.

Meet the Mitzmans

This is not a "candid" photo. It is not an angle shot. It is simply a picture of Moe Mitzman, his wife, his kids and his diploma. Moe was graduated this spring from Tri-State college at Angola, Ind. He blew into Angola three years ago from Hartford, Conn., with his family and no money. Moe earned his way through college and supported his family meanwhile by running a barber shop, teaching boxing and wrestling at a CCC camp, promoting boxing and wrestling matches and doing a little janitor work on the side. Now he has a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering. As we said before, this is not a very fancy photograph. It just shows Moe with his wife, his kids and his diploma.

U. S. ENVOY ATTACKS NATIONS FOR MURDER OF DEFENSELESS

(By Associated Press)

REIMS, France—United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt delivered a scathing attack today on "certain nations" who resort to "murder of defenseless men, women and children" and "employ such crimes as instruments of their national policy."

The ambassador named no countries. He spoke at Reims city hall, where he was made an honorary citizen.

The ambassador asserted "there are materials present from which to rebuild international morality."

"Not alone France, England and all the countries of America," he declared, "but also a host of nations are eager to live as good neighbors.

"There is a calm courage and understanding of the unity of the human race not only in France but in many other countries which, like France, are devoted to liberty and peace."

Of bombings of civilians, he said: "Only twenty years ago the murder of defenseless men, women and children by armed men sent a shudder of horror throughout the world. Since 1918, the decay of international morality has been so rapid that today certain nations are not ashamed to employ such crimes as instruments of national policy.

UP TO $34,482

Tax Collections Continue to Average $5,000 Daily.

Averaging around $5,000 a day since county tax books opened Tuesday, receipts of real estate taxes for the second half totaled $34,482 today, County Treasurer John E. Kolb's records showed.

More than half of the total collection was paid in before the books opened. Yesterday's receipts amounted to $5,107. Total charge for the half year is approximately $890,000, of which nearly $150,000 is in delinquent taxes on real estate and special assessments.

Tax books will remain open until Aug. 20 for the payment of levies without penalty, the treasurer said.

Sees 'Double' But Finds Only Little Resemblance

Mansfield Physician Meets Salt Lake City Schettler, Friends Note Marked Similarity.

Dr. O. H. Schettler, Mansfield physician, is one of the majority who can't "see himself as others see him."

He returned this week from a month's tour of the western states and a stop over at Salt Lake City to see his "double" who also has the name of Schettler. George Gaalaas, Mansfield, had met Q. R. Schettler of Salt Lake, was amazed at the resemblance and reported it to the Mansfield physician.

"I could see a certain resemblance," Dr. Schettler said, "but certainly not enough that we could masquerade as each other—as they do in fiction." But Carlton Fernyak, who accompanied him on the trip, and Mr. and Mrs. George Gillespie (the former Helen Weller of Mansfield) of Salt Lake City, thought there was a very marked and even unusual resemblance, when the men stood side by side.

Unable To Find Relationship.

Dr. Schettler and his "prototype" tried to find some relationship but failed. The Mansfielder said that a cousin of his grandfather, however, had gone to Utah many years ago and embraced the Mormon religion.

It developed that Q. R. Schettler is one of 19 children born among three wives of one man. The father, he explained, gave each child a set of initials, starting with the first of the alphabet, and then fitted names to the initials. For instance the first of the 19 children was labeled A. B. and the second one C. D. and so on down the alphabet, as long as the letters held out. Being the ninth child, he drew Q. R., and became Quincy R. Schettler. He holds an executive position with one of the large industries in Salt Lake City.

After leaving Salt Lake City, the two Mansfield men toured the Southwest, stopping off at Grand Canyon, Boulder Dam and Los Angeles. Dr. Schettler attended the national convention of the American Medical association at San Francisco, and also was a delegate to the Kiwanis International convention in the same city. Arthur F. Busch, Ruth avenue, was another Mansfield delegate and Fernyak was an alternate. Dr. W. H. Wolford and L. S. Houk were the other members of the Mansfield club to attend the convention.

On the return trip Dr. Schettler and Fernyak came by way of Seattle, Vancouver, Lake Louise, Banff and the Canadian Rockies.

While on the westward trip news reached them that the lost TWA airplane which carried J. Tracy and Mary Lou Dirlam of Mansfield to their death, had been located on Buena Vista peak in central western California. Fernyak, an aviation enthusiast, hurried to that location and in company with government investigators made the trip up the mountain by horseback the day after the bodies were brought down and before the wreckage of the plane had been taken away.

It was a 37-mile trip through deep snows. He took a number of pictures of the wreckage.

SMART PUPIL

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Mrs. Harry Houdini, widow of the escape artist, taught Pat Houdini II, her pet parrot, too well.

Preparing to leave for New York she left Pat in a boarding house. Attendants set him out doors. Pat, remembering a lesson by his mistress, picked the lock on his cage and flew into the Hollywood hills.

4-H Clubs

Plans for baking cakes and selling them to provide funds for the club were formulated at a meeting of the Merry Stitchers club at the home of Mrs. Frank, the leader. The next meeting will be Wednesday afternoon, July 13 at the home of Alverda Casler.

MAC PHAIL FIGURES DODGERS WILL CLEAN UP $200,000 THIS SEASON.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Max Schmeling, who collected approximately $177,000 for fighting Joe Louis, took around $100,000 of same back to Germany. . . . The rest went for income taxes, debts, expenses, etc. . . . Larry MacPhail, the Barnum of Brooklyn's Dodgers, estimates the club will clear $200,000 this year, what with night baseball and Babe Ruth's appearances on the road.

A NEW title threat appears on the battle scene of the News-Journal Class B golf league today.

It is the Central Fruit & Grocery outfit, which has been maneuvering around the bottom of the first division during the greater part of the season.

Serves Notice.

The Central golfing machine is still several points in the rear of the leaders, but it served notice on the pace setters yesterdays at Possum Run when it trimmed the front-running Bissman company, 4 to 1.

The triumph jumped Homer King's club into sole possession of third place, four points behind the second place Metal Vaults, and enhanced its titular chances considerably.

Wayne Anthony set the pace for the Fruit team with a 38, and Fred Loykovich and King followed with 39's. Swigart came through with a 48 to cost the Fruits a chance to sweep the match.

The defeat trimmed the Bissman lead another point, and now its margin over the Vaults is only two points.

The Vaults also were defeated yesterday, losing to the Elks, 3 to 2. Rabal won the only match point for the Vaults, who registered their other point on low team total.

This marks the first time this season that the team with the most match victories failed to win the low total point.

Tie for Medal.

John Foltz, who has been golfing for only a couple of years, shot his lowest competitive score. The Elks' youngster came through with a 37 to tie V. H. Oberlander of the News-Journals for medal honors.

Maurice Byrnes came through with a 39 as the Newspapermen edged the Auxter Motors, 3 to 0, one of the matches being postponed. Frank Vild shot a 38 for the Motors.

In another series in which a match was postponed, Ohio Public Service won over Al's Kicks, 2 to 1.

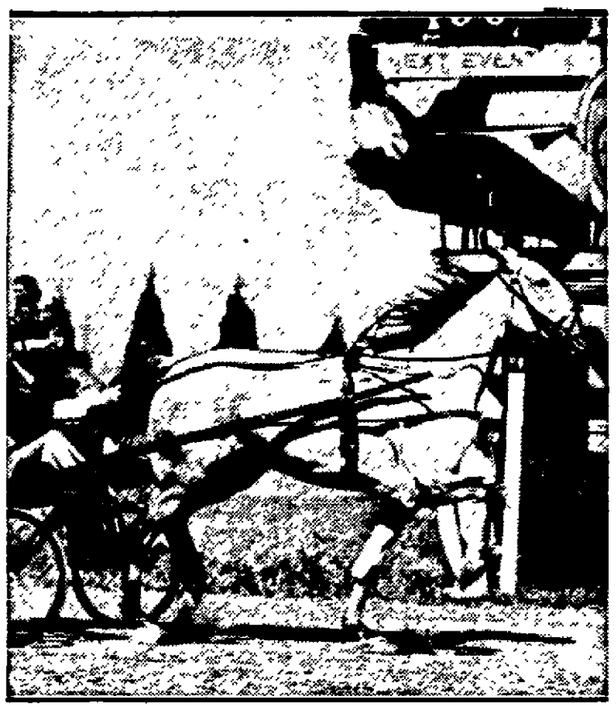
Sets Mark at North Randall



With 10,000 persons looking on, Greyhound, champion trotter, whirls the fastest quarter mile ever recorded in a harness race at North Randall track near Cleveland. Greyhound's quarter-mile mark of 26 4-5 seconds was in the second heat of a championship stallion stakes. Sep Palin is up on Greyhound in this photo of the trotter crossing the finish line.

King Vagabond Captures Trot

Mansfield Horse Wins $500 Stake at Randall.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The Hambletonian, harness racing's annual classic, today had a new favorite.

Long Key, who led the field to the finish line in the $6,185 championship stallion stake for three-year-old trotters at North Randall yesterday, not only downed the competition of eight other candidates for the classic, but set a record for the fastest three-heat race ever trotted in the event and tied the stake's record mile with a time in the second heat of 2.00½. The mark was set by Greyhound, world's champion trotter, in 1935.

The colt, owned by E. J. Merkle of Columbus and driven yesterday by Ben White, lost the first heat to Champlain, but came back to take the next two.

The Mansfield-owned King Vagabond captured the $500 2:15 class trot with times of 2:04 1-5, and 2:05.

The $400 2:22 class three-year-old pace was taken by Gene Talmadge in 2.05 4-5, and 2:04 4-5, and the $400 2.20 class trot was won by Lilly Mac in 2:17 and 2.04 4-5.

Today's Grand Circuit program at Randall was headlined by the $1,650 Wade Park Manor stake for two-year-old pacers, and the $1,000 Devereux-Harvey stake, a 17 class trot.

Resume Junior Series Today

Mansfield Legion Team Plays in Elyria.

The third and fourth games of the district championship play-off games involving the Mansfield American Legion juniors will be staged in Elyria today and Saturday.

The Mansfield and Elyria posts sponsor the only junior teams in the district, and the winner of the current series will qualify for the state finals to be held in Columbus.

Mansfield and Elyria split the first two games over the week-end Mansfield, coached by Dewey Durant, defeated Elyria, 3 to 0, Saturday, with Jack Lyons doing the twirling but lost 9 to 6 Sunday

The team which wins the first three games will be crowned champion of the district

Three Represent Possum Run In Ohio Meet This Week-End

THE Possum Run golf club will be represented in the ninth annual Ohio Public Links tournament to be run off at Sunningdale, Toledo, Saturday and Sunday by three players, Pete Linster, Carl Kushin and Ferd Loykovich.

With 150 entries already in, officials expect a record-breaking field of more than 185. The previous record entry list was at Columbus last year when 147 golfers participated.

The meet, a tune-up for the national public links tournament at Cleveland next month, will be 72-hole medal play.

Participants will play 36 holes Saturday The 16 low scorers will be grouped into the championship flight for Sunday's 36-hole play while the remainder of the field will be divided into 16-man flights, also, for Sunday's rounds. Members of the lower brackets will be eligible for the championship if they come through with good rounds Sunday.

OILMEN ADVANCE

Hi-Speeds Whip Sandusky Club at Wakeman as Beer Allows Four Hits.

PLAYING airtight ball behind the spectacular pitching of Pete Beer, the Mansfield Hi-Speeds defeated the Cloverleaf Dairys of Sandusky, 4 to 3, in a first-round game in the semi-pro tournament at Wakeman last night under the lights.

It marked the first appearance of the Mansfield club under the incandescents, but the lamps did not bother the Oilmen, judging from the score.

Strikes Out 11.

Beer was never more brilliant than he was last night. He kept his fast ball low and outside, and yielded only four hits as he set 11 of the Sanduskians down via the strike-out route.

The Hi-Speeds never trailed after gaining a 1 to 0 lead in the first inning. Sandusky tied the score 3-all in the seventh, but the Hi-Speeds came back in the eighth with what proved to be the winning run.

Ganaway's long single to center scored Bob DeHaven who had walked and stole second, with the winning run in the eighth.

Schmidt's walk and theft of second and Manager Earl Herrick's double put the first run across the plate in the opening inning. Max Scott hit a home run over the left field wall in the second with Ganaway on second to give the Hi-Speeds their two runs in that inning

The Oilmen did not score again until the eighth, while the Sandusky club added runs in the fourth, sixth and seventh.

Errors Help Losers.

A single, walk and error gave Sandusky its first run, and another misplay gave the losers their last run in the seventh.

The Hi-Speeds are not scheduled in the tournament again until next week.

Tonight's tournament game at 8:30 will put the Gypsum Chief Rocks against the North Olmstead Merchants. The Sandusky Ambers and Lagrange Merchants will tangle Saturday night.

Seek Revenge For 2-0 Loss

Legionnaires Hosts to Columbus Sunday.

Revenge for the defeat suffered in the first game of the season will be sought by the American Legion semi-pro club Sunday when the Federal Glass club of Columbus comes to the Fairground to open the second half of the Central Ohio league season.

The Legionnaires dropped a 2 to 0 decision to the Columbus club in their only meeting this year. Their other scheduled game was rained out.

The Glassmen, who lost the league championship by the margin of a half game, presents a veteran lineup.

Trosky Glad League Lost, Raps Gehrig

Quoted by Paper on Visit to Ill Mother.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Oscar Vitt's Indians eyed the St. Louis Browns as offering an opportunity today to pull away from the New York Yankees and end the deadlock for first place

Earl Whitehill, veteran left-hander, was the Cleveland manager's probable mound choice to open the three-game series against Howard Mills, rookie portsider, although Mel Harder was a Cleveland possibility.

Omitted From Team.

Hal Trosky, clubbing first baseman who was omitted from the American league all-star contingent, made some sharp remarks in Iowa yesterday as most of his mates went through batting practice here.

The Iowa City Press-Citizen quoted Trosky, who was visiting his sick mother at Norway, Ia., as saying he was "glad the American league got beat" in the all-star game.

"Look at Lou Gehrig," the paper quoted Trosky. "He hasn't been hitting a lick all season and they name him to the all-star lineup just because he has played in some 2,500 games and in the other five all-star contests."

Vitt said he planned to send Bob Feller against the Browns tomorrow, and Johnny Allen Sunday. The Tribe leaves Monday night on an invasion of the east, the perennial burial ground of Cleveland pennant hopes.

Humphries Signed.

The club announced that Johnny Humphries, rookie pitcher whose relief work particularly has been outstanding, had been signed to a new 1938-1939 contract at an increased figure. Sports writers figured it meant an increase of about $2,000 to his present salary of about $4,000.

Stables Invade Fairground For County Fair Meet

Cartnal's Horses Among Early Arrivals for Races Billed Late in Month.

THE VANGUARD of Grand Circuit and Ohio Short Ship pacers and trotters began arriving at the Richland county fairground today for the three-day harness race meeting during the Richland county fair, July 27, 28 and 29.

With the Grand Circuit meeting at North Randall closing tomorrow, several of the stables at the Cleveland track have already broken camp and headed for quarters reserved at the local track.

Next On Schedule.

The Richland county speed program is next on the Ohio racing list. With its fair the earliest in Ohio this year, Mansfield will form the starting point for fair racing followers.

Gabe Cartnal who last year drove the champion two-year-old colt. Callie G., to a record of 2:06¾, the best performance on a half-mile track, was among the early arrivals

Cartnal, father of a Mansfielder, Kenneth R. Cartnal, manager of the Interstate Loan company, brought 10 horses to the fairground stable today.

Other stable reservation, all to be filled within the next few days after the Randall meeting, have been made by W. N. McMillan of London who will bring a string of 16; Hump Morrison of Sandusky with 10 from the Sloan hotel stables; R. V. Baker of Dayton will bring five from the Black Cat stables; Bob Vallory of Urbana is booked for six; Dr. Myers of Tiffin has reserved quarters for 14.

Sixteen racers will be brought here by the Curley Smart stables in Columbus; Bob Plaxico, former Mansfield trainer, now of Canton, will enter eight horses.

B. H. Huston, superintendent of the speed program, said that additional accommodations will have to be erected at the fairground so quarters can be provided for an expected entry list of between 250 and 300 horses.

Stables at the fairground now will quarter about 150 horses, he said.

More than 90 horses have been entered in four major events on the three-day racing card.

Purses Hit $500.

Purses for the two-year-old trot stake and the three-year-old stake pace, booked as two of four events on the opening day's program, will total between $450 and $500, Huston estimated. The same is true for the two-year-old pace stake and the three-year-old trot stake on the second day's program.

In all, there are 12 races listed for the three-day speed card. Racing will start the first day of the fair and will be concluded on the final day.

Score 24 In Three Frames

The Bruins triumphed over the Phillies, 24 to 5, to climb into a tie with the Dodgers for third place. The winners collected 19 hits, with Freer leading the attack with a home run, a double and single. Miller allowed the Phillies five hits.

Scoring in every inning but one, the Athletics trounced the lowly Browns, 14 to 4, at the Fairground yesterday. Phillips hit a home run for the A's, while Martin obtained a triple, double and single.

The White Sox scored three runs in the fourth to defeat the Yanks, 6 to 5.

Allowing only five hits and striking out nine, Freiheit hurled the Tigers to a 7 to 5 victory over the Senators at Liberty park. The victory moved the Tigers into undisputed possession of first place.

Loeckel Leads Blue Sunocos

Loeckel pounded out a home run and triple to lead Remy's Blue Sunoco girls' softball team to a 7 to 4 victory over the Harris Paints in Ashland yesterday. Jocha and Gregoria also obtained two hits apiece.

The Mansfield team broke a 4-all tie with a three-run splurge in the eighth to win the decision. Schuster scattered eight hits and struck out three of the Ashland players.

"I WILL COMMUNICATE WITH YOU, LATER," HE SAID. WELL, WHY DOESN'T HE? - WONDER IF I'D BETTER NOT TELL COLONEL CAREY ABOUT IT? - BUT HE SAID, "TELL NO ONE"!
EVIDENTLY THE MAN MADE A FAVORABLE IMPRESSION ON PAM!
TIME FOR LUNCH! I'LL JUST LOCK UP THIS DRAWER THE PACKAGE IS IN, TRY TO FORGET ALL ABOUT IT!
SHE HURRIED TO A NEARBY CAFE-TERIA - BUT SHE COULDN'T FORGET!
OH, DEAR! MAYBE SOME ONE WAS WATCH-ING - JUST WAITING FOR ME TO LEAVE, TO SLIP IN AND SEARCH THE OFFICE!
AND HE SAID IT WAS VERY VALUA-BLE!
SHE ATE BUT LITTLE, AND RUSHED BACK! WILL THE PACKAGE BE GONE?

SUFFER MAJOR LOSSES DURING EARLY SELLING

Steels, Coppers, Rails, and Motors Hit as Profit-taking Invades Market.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market reacted sharply at the start today under an overnight accumulation of profit-taking and continued to hold around initial lows in later dealings despite recovery attempts.

Steels, coppers, rails, utilities, chemicals, motors and several blue-chip issues suffered the widest declines on the initial wave of realizing.

U. S. Steel was particularly soft, opening 2⅝ points lower on a sale of 4,000 shares at 57⅛. The stock recovered to around 58 later, but before noon had slipped back to its initial low. Electric Power and Light started 1¼ points lower on a transaction of 3,000 shares at 11½. Other sales of 1,000 shares or more were common among pivotal issues, with the tape moving rapidly along in the first few minutes.

PROMISES PROBE OF GOV. EARLE

Judge Says Grand Jury Will Be Summoned Soon.

HARRISBURG, Pa. — (INS) — Judge Paul N. Schaeffer ended weeks of speculation today with an informal announcement that "there will be a grand jury investigation" of the Democratic administration headed by Gov. George H. Earle

His formal order authorizing the probe of Democratic primary campaign charges against members of the state administration will be issued Monday, he said.

The judge's announcement came following successive conferences he held this morning with Attorney Carl B. Shelley of Harrisburg.

START BARTLEY AVENUE PAVING

Workmen Placing Curb Forms Today; Job Expected to Take Six Weeks.

The paving of Bartley avenue from Glessner avenue to Parkview street got under way today as employes of the George B. Herring company started laying the curb forms.

Contract for the project was awarded to the firm two weeks ago by the board of control on its bid of $6,735. It is expected that the job will be completed in six weeks.

When finished, Herring will move his crew to Willis avenue where a concrete paving will be laid at the cost of $3,549. The contract calls for the improvement between First street and Arch street.

The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company, which was awarded the contract for laying an asphalt surface on Ausdale avenue from West Park boulevard to Linden road at the cost of $12,727, will begin on the project within two weeks.

Carl Stander, president of the firm, said his employes are now completing a paving project in Bucyrus and would move to Ausdale avenue as soon as the Bucyrus job is finished.

City council at its June 7 meeting authorized the issuance of $26,600 in bonds to finance the property owners' share of the cost of the job. The city's share of $6,000 will be paid from the automobile registration fee fund.

PRICES SPURT

NEW YORK— (INS) —Stock exchange memberships today reflected the market boom by spurting $12,000 to $80,000, new high for the year.

This compares with the previous 1938 high of $75,000 and the low of $51,000 established only on June 20, the day the market began its spectacular uprush.

ASKS FOR VOTE

Butler School Board Seeks to Put Bond Issue on Ballot.

The Butler village board of education tdoay submitted its request to the county election board for a vote on a proposed $49,500 school bond issue at the August primary election.

Approved by the state tax commission, the issue would provide supplementary funds for the construction of a new $90,000 high school building and auditorium. The board has the tentative approval of a $40,500 PWA grant for the remainder of the building cost.

The bond issue calls for a tax levy of 1.75 mills outside the 10-mill limitation for a period of 20 years.

The new building was made necessary, board members said, by the consolidation of rural one-room schools with the Butler district. After construction of the building, the present high school building would be used for elementary pupils.

HEART ON HER SLEEVE

CHAPTER XIV.

Sunny stood smiling in the doorway. It was the same carefree smile Moleen had loved from the first night, such a little while before, that they had met.

Moleen smiled through the two big tears that stood in her eyes and held out her hand.

"Hello—Sunny. It's—so nice of you to come—here to see me."

Sunny ignored the outstretched hand. He reached out and gathered her into his arms.

"Molly, Molly—dear," he whispered against her ear.

Moleen was totally unprepared for the wave of emotion that swept her in Sunny's arms. He was saying softly, "Molly, Molly, darling—didn't you know I loved you. That I'd come the minute I knew you—needed me."

* * *

She felt his first kiss on her mouth, and her heart answered his in a great surge of joy.

"You—love me, too?" Sunny held her at arm's length and saw the happiness in her eyes.

Moleen nodded, but could not speak for the big lump in her throat.

"You'll marry me, right away?" Sunny held her to him again.

"Oh, my dear," Moleen said against his breast. "Are you sure you want me—after all this—trouble?"

"Foolish child," Sunny said tenderly. "As if anything that's past matters. It's all over—all the unhappiness you'll ever have. The rest of your life belongs to me. I'll be very good to you, Molly."

"I—know, I know." A little sob caught in her throat. "But I've got something that has to be done before we can talk any more about it. Just give me a little more time."

He sat on the bench and drew her down beside him.

"There must be no more secrets, Molly." He searched her eyes. "Tell me, what do you have to do?"

In a few words she told him what she had promised to do for the district attorney to help trap Charlie Farro.

Sunny said alarmed, "No darling. It's too much of a risk. I can't let you."

* * *

"Don't try to interfere, Sunny. You mustn't. Please not, if you love me. I've made a promise and I must keep it."

Sunny took her into his arms again.

"All right. On one condition. That if Mignon can get her father to give us half an hour more, you'll marry me. City Hall is only a block or so away."

Close in his arms, Moleen felt all fear of the future melt before her new and wonderful love.

"Sunny," she asked then in a small voice, "are you sure you really want to marry me? Maybe it's just sympathy—not really love. Please be very sure."

Sunny laughed softly.

"Let me do the worrying about that, darling. You just be sure of your own little heart."

"It's—strange," Molly said wonderingly, "how—it all came so suddenly. Why, Sunny, until you walked into this room a few minutes ago I'd never thought of ever loving or marrying anybody. It—it's as if a door had opened, and there was—my love."

"And so it did." Sunny kissed her again. "I'm sorry it had to be the door of the district attorney. But—that's a mere trifle when we've such important things to worry about."

Molly held him close.

"I—if you really want me to marry you now, Sunny—I will. There—there's nothing more to tell you. My brother has been proved innocent."

Sunny drew her to her feet and kissed her again.

"I don't care, my sweet if your family closet is full of skeletons. We'll worry about the ancestors after you're Mrs. Tucker."

"You're—so good to believe in me—and want me," Moleen choked, "when you really know nothing at all about me."

"Wait'll you get wise to me." Sunny kissed the dimple that came out in her right cheek when she was very happy. "I'll probably beat you and be terribly jealous."

A knock came on the door. It was Mignon. She said, cheerfully, "Well, love-birds, time's up."

Sunny said hurriedly, "Talk your father into another half hour, Toots, to give us time to run down to City Hall. I won't let her undertake that Farro job until I've got her under contract."

Mignon kissed them both, wiping tears of joy from her eyes.

"Oh, Sunny! This is so exciting!" She hugged him. "I won't let father interfere with young love if I have to stand over him with one of those pistols from the wall in his office."

* * *

There was great excitement in Tom Laine's private quarters when his daughter brazenly opened the door and marched in. The district attorney was shouting into a telephone:

"Check on it! Double check on it! If that's true, the case is almost closed."

Mignon stood waiting Laine slammed the receiver and said crossly: "Mignon, you shouldn't walk in here like this."

"But—Dad," she went over and sat on his desk, "I've some terrific news for you."

"Out with it, I'm in a hurry."

"Please," she gave him her prettiest smile, "could Moleen have just a few minutes—outside the building? Twenty minutes or a half hour before she has to go on that job? I'll go with her and have her back in no time."

"What for?" Tom Laine lit a cigaret and sat back. "It's pretty irregular. She's still my prisoner, you know."

"I imagine you'll agree that it's rather important," Mignon's eyes danced. "Would you please be so kind as to just give her time to step down to City Hall and get married."

"Married?" Laine sat up. "To whom?"

"Sunny." Mignon smiled happily. "They're terribly in love. Sunny says he won't let her go to the hotel on your Farro assignment until she's Mrs. Tucker."

The district attorney studied his daughter's face.

"I—always thought," he said frowning, "you and Sunny would be married some day. Wasn't he your favorite boy friend?"

Mignon nodded, but there was no unhappiness in her face.

* * *

"Sunny is an angel. He's the only man in the world I know that I'd like to see Molly marry. Jed Patrick and I are going to be witnesses." May we go? Just for a half hour?"

"And who, pray tell, is Jed Patrick?"

Mignon dropped her eyes

"Now don't say I'm fickle, or I won't like you any more. But he's the most wonderful man in all the world."

Tom Laine scratched his head.

"Last night it was Charlie Farro, wasn't it?"

Mignon shook her head swiftly.

"That's where you're wrong. I've been mad about Jed ever since the first night I heard him sing. He's going to be one of the most famous singers in the world some day. But I thought Molly was in love with him. So I wanted her to think I was—wild about Charlie, because—well, I sort of had a feeling Jed rather liked me and I didn't want to come between him and Molly."

Tom Laine sighed.

"Mignon! You're too darn noble to belong to this family. You must be a throwback to a generation long since past. But I rather love you for it."

He got up.

"Okay, fairy godmother. The wedding is on, or would be—except that you've all forgotten one very important detail. The law provides for an interval of three days after the marriage license is issued."

Mignon's face fell.

"But I'm going out now," her father said, "to hand the bride-to-be a little wedding present. She won't need to see any more of Charlie Farro. He was bumped off about half an hour ago in his office by Bill Rafetti's kid brother Ike. That'll save her a pretty dangerous job and it ought to be a good tidings for the groom, too."

'SAFETY TOWN' ADOPTS DEFINITE COURSE OF TRAFFIC INSTRUCTION

A definite course of instruction as a means of teaching pre-school youngsters traffic regulations has been adopted at "Safety Town," patrolman Frend C. Boals said today.

The course was developed by Mrs. Ruth Robbins, private kindergarten teacher who used the method of instruction in her own school.

Boals explained that the course was designed to cover a 10-day period of instruction in traffic safety.

The method is being used for the first time this week by the "Safety Town" supervisor during the period the project with its miniature traffic light and toy automobiles is at Johns park.

The course includes teaching children which is their right and which is left while they are riding in the tiny cars and the different colors in the traffic light and just what they signify.

After four days of instruction they are then taught when and where to cross the streets and at the conclusion of each day's teaching they are reminded to learn at least one safety rule It may be stop, look and listen—don't play in the street—look both ways before crossing the street, or don't run into the street after a ball.

On the final day they are given a review or test of the instructions that have been given them during the 10-day period.

GRANTED LEAVE IN DAMAGE SUITS

Lumber Dealer Given 30 Days to Answer Marriott's Petition.

A 30-day leave in which to plead or file an answer to damage suits brought against him by County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott and Mrs. Marriott had been granted today to F. L. Tinkey, Mansfield lumber dealer, in common pleas court.

The suits were filed early in June and seek to collect $4,500 for injuries suffered by Mrs. Marriott last Feb. 28 when a car she was riding collided with the defendant's truck in Woodland.

In his action, the prosecutor asks $588 for damage to his automobile which was driven by Mrs. Marriott. The Marriotts are represented in their suits by Attys. Weldon and Huston.

GIVEN APPROVAL

Bond Issues for Three Nearby School Districts OK'd.

Boards of education at Loudonville, Fredericktown and Hardy rural district in Holmes county had been granted permission today by the state tax commission to submit bond issues totaling $191,000 for school improvements at the Aug. 9 election.

In all the tax commission granted authorizations for submission of bond issues for $15,600,000 to finance school, city and county improvement projects in the state.

The Loudonville proposal calls for $93,000 for a school, while at Fredericktown the issue will be for $77,000 and the Holmes county proposal for $21,000. The Holmes county plan includes additions, alterations and repairs to the Hardy rural high school and grade school buildings.

ADOPTS KITTENS

Hen's Wrath Aroused At Feeding Time.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — Apparently suffering from a distorted mother complex, an otherwise-normal Rhode Island Red hen belonging to Mrs. H. J. Prickett of Perkins, adopted five kittens and refuses to relinquish title to them.

Less than two weeks old, the litter is so contented it must be removed forcibly to be fed.

Translated from the Spanish, here is what the names of some New Mexico postoffices mean: Louse Egg, Fly Trap, Eib Head, Rib, Onion, Chicken, and Mouse.

CHANGE OF CITY BUS SCHEDULES

Effective Saturday, July 9th schedules of all city buses will be changed so as to provide a uniform twenty minute service on all lines up to 6:30 p. m. and a thirty minute service during the evening hours and on Sundays and holidays.

There will also be several changes in bus routes including a new route operating out Springmill street, called the Fairground line.

New schedules and information concerning route changes may be secured from any bus operator or at the company office located at 89 North Main Street. The telephone number is Canal 1870.

KNIGHTS COME RIDING AFTER BABS' DEBUT

'Modest' $60,000 Party Marks Her Formal Bow to Society; Suitors Fall in Line.

This is the second of six articles on the life of Countess Barbara Hutton von Haugwitz-Reventlow by Helen Welshimer, well-known writer.

By HELEN WELSHIMER

NEW YORK—The Woolworth building in New York City was the world's tallest skyscraper in the days of the World war. It was built from a billion nickels and dimes that rolled through the cash registers of old Frank Woolworth.

Dominating the New York skyline for 50 miles around, rearing its golden-beaconed spire above the financial center of the modern world, it was nevertheless more European than American, more old world than new For from top to bottom this great steel-skeletoned giant was covered all over with grandiose Gothic embellishments

Its lobbies and corridors were lined with marble and rich with ornate decoration. High above the street, Frank Woolworth had his sanctum sanctorum.

Where He Could Dream.

Once he may have been a poor farm boy, once a $10-a-week grocery clerk A nickel and dime business may have builded his temple but now Frank Woolworth put it all behind. He could sit in his throne room and dream

Has Countess Reventlow, the old man's granddaughter, been living in the fantastic dream that seemed to possess him in his later years? Were her two successive marriages to sons of nobility a logical part of this dream? And was her smile for Prince Frederick of Prussia, 26-year-old grandson of the former German kaiser, born of a hope for a still greater title? At any rate, the prince, object of rumors, finally had to tell an interviewer that he had met Barbara merely a few times and could not be the man mentioned as the person Count Court, Barbara's second husband wanted to kill.

From infancy Barbara knew only the unreality which great wealth brought upon her She had been a child princess in an ivory tower, hedged in by governesses and guards. Her mother had died when she was six.

At six she had a pin money allowance of $7,000 a year At nine it was raised to $12,000 a year. By the time she was 13, it had climbed to $35,000 and when she was 16, she was receiving annually for her small expenditures, $60,000

Her Father Remarries.

As Barbara went into her subdeb years her father married again. His second wife was Mrs Irene Bodd, a Detroit divorcee. This marriage occurred in 1926.

At 18 Barbara made her debut and for the first time the outside world began to know something

They Gave Barbara Hutton Her Start

Barbara Hutton, before her first marriage.

Woolworth building, built with the nickels and dimes that rolled through the cash registers of Frank W. Woolworth, Barbara's grandfather.

of her. Now it saw an occasional photograph in the newspapers. The public had known so little about this second wealthiest little girl in America—Doris Duke was first—that it had not been especially curious

Barbara's debut was made at a quiet little affair held in the ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton—a quiet little affair but it cost $60,000 just for floral decorations. There was a moonlight garden setting made of silver birch trees with sprays of eucalyptus brought across the continent from California at a cost of $3,000 apiece.

One thousand guests drank Barbara's imported champagne that night.

And then the knights came riding

She Smiled Upon All.

Barbara was tall, golden-haired and vivacious. Many men were interested in her. She smiled upon all of them—and returned no one's interest There was Phil Plant, for one, the ex-husband of Constance Bennett, the actress, popular and wealthy. He was a favorite for a while.

But Barbara Hutton had embroidered a noble crest on her dreams She wanted a title, although she may not have realized it

Meantime, her comeliness—and no doubt her millions—were being observed by the stag lines

The knights came riding.

Tomorrow: Magic Carpets.

OK'S INCREASED SCHOOL BUDGET

Shelby Board Approves Hike of $10,000 in Expenses for Next Term.

SHELBY — A tentative budget asking $108,667 for general operation of the Shelby public schools for the 1938-39 term was approved by the board of education last night. The budget was sent to the county budget commission in Mansfield today for approval.

The budget asks for approximately $10,000 more than last year, school officials said, due to the increase in enrollment. Added operating expense will be created by the $80,000 addition to the high school. Only $98,000 was asked for general operation last year.

Set aside in the budget is $22,520 for bond retirement and interest. Operation of the school plant was set at $13,000, with $4,000 of the amount to be used for fuel. Maintenance was estimated at $5,800.

An increase of $2,000 in the teachers' salary fund over last year, school officials stated, was due to the addition of a teacher for the industrial arts' class which will be added this fall to the school cirriculum. Salaries call for $65,150 this year.

Other business at the session included the purchase of two buses, one from the W. C. Gump company and the other from Bourgeois Motor Sales, at an approximate cost of $4,000. Current bills were approved of $1,144.51 and estimates on the high school addition of $12,525.92.

BERRY SEASON NEARLY OVER

Markets to Offer Abundance of Blackberries in Next Few Days.

Blackberries, which have never been more plentiful judging by the crop of wild ones, will come to the markets either Saturday or the first of the week. And because of the abundance of them, they will be reasonable in price.

Outside of blackberries, the berry season is about over. A few crates of gooseberries and both varieties of raspberries will be found yet this week and possibly a few days next week, but they are scarce. Red currants and sour cherries, too, have about run their season.

Merchants will again offer shipped in strawberries from Michigan on Saturday, as the local season is finished. Blueberries and huckleberries also are being shipped in. Harvest and transparent apples, suggestive of warm applesauce and cinnamon at this time of the year, are being sold everywhere. California growers are sending plums, cherries and apricots. Peaches are reasonable.

One of the shortest season vegetables is green peas; there is always a flood of them for a very short time, and now is the time. They are coming into the local markets by the bushels and are quite cheap.

Home grown cauliflower and kale, Ashland and Hartville celery, and asparagus are among the vegetables that come to the markets fresh every day. Summer and Italian squash, new crop sweet potatoes from Michigan and head lettuce are being sent in from other states.

Watermelons in general are fine quality and reasonable price. They are still being shipped from the Georgia growers. Cantaloupes are plentiful and better than they have been for several seasons.

"DOCTOR don't let me die!"

Thus pleaded a Public Enemy No. 1 as he lay riddled with bullets at death's door. Day and night the doctor fought, a hopeless battle to save a useless life.

But, crook or clergyman, prince or pauper, when the doctor is called, he recognizes no class distinction in his sacred duty and grave responsibility in the preservation of health of all mankind.

COUPLE MARRIED

BUCYRUS—Miss Ruth Knecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Wesley Knecht, 418 South Spring street, and Don R. Kerr, son of Mrs. Jessie Kerr, 512 Kaler avenue, were united in marriage Thursday morning in Good Hope Lutheran parsonage. Rev. H. H Glick performed the single ring service.

The couple was unattended.

Following a wedding trip to Buffalo they will establish their home at 228 Woodlawn avenue. Mrs. Kerr is employed in the offices at the W. A. Riddell company where Mr. Kerr is specifications engineer.

THEATER

JAMES CAGNEY is going through the trying ordeal of making a picture with the "Dead End" kids. It will be titled "Angles With Dirty Faces" if the Hollywood reporter didn't make a mistake. The Dead End kids are not easy to handle or work with. . . . Kipling's "Gunga Din" will come to the screen with Victor McLaglen, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Cary Grant as the boon companions. . . . R-K-O paid $255,000 for the right to screen "Room Service" and is paying the Marx Brothers another $250,000 to play it, but the set in which most of the action takes place, cost only $100. This is the Broadway play that rolled New Yorkers into the aisles. . . .

A Woman's Picture.

Ranchers Against Rustlers.

It's ranchers against gold rustlers in "Bar 20 Justice," the latest Hopalong Cassidy thriller which opens today at the Madison with the original "Hoppy" cast—William Boyd, Russell Hayden and George Hayes. It's the aroused cattlemen that open warfare on the gold rustlers who are seeking to get control of the richest gold mine in the West. Gwen Gaze, who has been playing Boyd's leading lady in several of his Western films, has the role of a widow, whose husband has been mysteriously slain and whose death is the signal that arouses the cattlemen to go after the interlopers. The picture will be shown today and Saturday.

In The Nick of Time.

The hero arrives with the important papers just in time to keep the heroine from signing away the ranch to the enemy, in "Land of Fighting Men" which the Majestic is showing, along with a James Cagney picture. The Western hero is Jack Randall, who with Herman Brix, famous athlete and 1932 Olympian shot put champion, fights a winning battle with the bad men of the wide open places. Louise Stanley, a pretty newcomer, plays the sister who comes out from the East to sign away the ranch but remains to help manage it, and to marry the hero. Lane Chandler, Rex Lease and Wheeler Oakman, all well known as Western types, are in the cast. The Cagney picture is "Something To Sing About."

* * *

Plays Dual Role.

Bob Livingston, one of the trio in the Three Mesquiteers, is called upon to play a dual role in "Outlaws of Sonora." Ritz theater attraction. He plays Stony Brooke, his regular role in all of the Mesquiteers pictures, and Dude Brannen, a vicious killer who resembles the Western soldier of fortune. Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune, the other two are not seen as much in this new picture as they usually are, but their one scene will delight their followers for they work with Terhune's talking doll, "Elmer." The action gets under way when a notorious outlaw, who resembles Stony, captures him and holds him captive while he masquerades as the hero. The second film is "Blondes At Work" another of the Torchy Blane stories.

BATES TO TAKE NEW COURSE AT FBI NEXT WEEK

Chief Leaves for Washington Monday to Attend 10-Day Retraining School.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates will leave Monday for Washington, D. C., where he will attend a 10-day retraining school at the National Police Academy, he said today.

The chief was granted a two-week leave of absence by Mayor Claude M. Hunter yesterday. Last year he completed a 12-week course in police work at the academy which is conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Bates received an invitation last week from J. Edgar Hoover, director of the G-Men, to attend the retraining course.

Conducted by G-Men.

The school, in session from July 13 to July 23, conducted by the G-men, drills police officers in the latest methods of scientific crime detection and investigation work. It includes textbook and practical training as well as training in the use of firearms.

During the chief's absence Capt. T. M. Bell, veteran police officer will be acting chief, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said.

Bates will receive his regular city salary as chief but will pay his own way this year, he said. Last summer $400 was raised in the city to send him to the F. B. I. course.

Americans Drink 15,000,000 Bottles Of Beverages Daily.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Americans are now drinking 15,000,000 bottles of carbonated beverages daily, according to the Liquid Carbonic corporation. This is equal to 5,475,000,000 bottles a year, or 42 bottles for each man, woman and child in the country.

Oak trees are more numerous in U. S. than in Europe.

Rich Baker Scion to Wed

Add another marriage to the list of society events of the season when George F. Baker of New York, son of the late George F. Baker and one of the richest young men in the U. S., and Frances Drexel Munn of Palm Beach, Fla., and Paris, wed Saturday at Locust Valley, L. I.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

ALLIANCE —(AP)— The moon may not be so dead as has been thought, says Dr. Walter H. Haas, Mount Union college astronomer.

His suspicion of some form of life on the moon is based on studies of Aristarchus. Aristarchus is one of the prominent craters on the moon. The ancients, lacking telescopes, thought these craters were seas.

The moon craters are from five to 60 miles in diameter, much larger than earth's volcanic craters. The walls of the moon craters are mostly steep. They stand out brilliantly in sunshine and pass into shadow. These changes make the contours very clear.

But Dr. Haas finds something puzzling in certain dark bands that appear on the walls around Aristarchus. He describes the bands in Popular Astronomy.

The dark bands do not appear to be shadows, he says. They come on gradually. They lead to a suspicion of some sort of surface change during the noonday heat on the moon.

Furthermore, Dr. Haas says this peculiar phenomenon is not confined to Aristarchus. It is brilliantly visible there, but it occurs in other craters.

Most sealing wax does not contain any wax, being composed of shellac, Venetian turpentine and coloring matter.

BERRY SEASON NEARLY OVER

Markets to Offer Abundance of Blackberries in Next Few Days.

Blackberries, which have never been more plentiful judging by the crop of wild ones, will come to the markets either Saturday or the first of the week. And because of the abundance of them, they will be reasonable in price.

Outside of blackberries, the berry season is about over. A few crates of gooseberries and both varieties of raspberries will be found yet this week and possibly a few days next week, but they are scarce. Red currants and sour cherries, too, have about run their season.

Merchants will again offer shipped in strawberries from Michigan on Saturday, as the local season is finished. Blueberries and huckleberries also are being shipped in. Harvest and transparent apples, suggestive of warm applesauce and cinnamon at this time of the year, are being sold everywhere. California growers are sending plums, cherries and apricots. Peaches are reasonable.

One of the shortest season vegetables is green peas; there is always a flood of them for a very short time, and now is the time. They are coming into the local markets by the bushels and are quite cheap.

Home grown cauliflower and kale, Ashland and Hartville celery, and asparagus are among the vegetables that come to the markets fresh every day. Summer and Italian squash, new crop sweet potatoes from Michigan and head lettuce are being sent in from other states.

Watermelons in general are fine quality and reasonable price. They are still being shipped from the Georgia growers. Cantaloupes are plentiful and better than they have been for several seasons

"DOCTOR don't let me die!"

Thus pleaded a Public Enemy No. 1 as he lay riddled with bullets at death's door Day and night the doctor fought, a hopeless battle to save a useless life.
But, crook or clergyman, prince or pauper, when the doctor is called, he recognizes no class distinction in his sacred duty and grave responsibility in the preservation of health of all mankind.

THEATER

JAMES CAGNEY is going through the trying ordeal of making a picture with the "Dead End" kids. It will be titled "Angles With Dirty Faces" if the Hollywood reporter didn't make a mistake. The Dead End kids are not easy to handle or work with. . . . Kipling's "Gunga Din" will come to the screen with Victor McLaglen, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Cary Grant as the boon companions. . . . R-K-O paid $255,000 for the right to screen "Room Service" and is paying the Marx Brothers another $250,000 to play it, but the set in which most of the action takes place, cost only $100. This is the Broadway play that rolled New Yorkers into the aisles. . . .

A Woman's Picture.

Ranchers Against Rustlers.

It's ranchers against gold rustlers in "Bar 20 Justice," the latest Hopalong Cassidy thriller which opens today at the Madison with the original "Hoppy" cast—William Boyd, Russell Hayden and George Hayes. It's the aroused cattlemen that open warfare on the gold rustlers who are seeking to get control of the richest gold mine in the West. Gwen Gaze, who has been playing Boyd's leading lady in several of his Western films, has the role of a widow, whose husband has been mysteriously slain and whose death is the signal that arouses the cattlemen to go after the interlopers. The picture will be shown today and Saturday.

In The Nick of Time.

* * *

Plays Dual Role.

Bob Livingston, one of the trio in the Three Mesquiteers, is called upon to play a dual role in "Outlaws of Sonora," Ritz theater attraction. He plays Stony Brooke, his regular role in all of the Mesquiteers pictures, and Dude Brannen, a vicious killer who resembles the Western soldier of fortune. Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune, the other two are not seen as much in this new picture as they usually are, but their one scene will delight their followers for they work with Terhune's talking doll, "Elmer." The action gets under way when a notorious outlaw, who resembles Stony, captures him and holds him captive while he masquerades as the hero. The second film is "Blondes At Work" another of the Torchy Blane stories.

BATES TO TAKE NEW COURSE AT FBI NEXT WEEK

Chief Leaves for Washington Monday to Attend 10-Day Retraining School.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates will leave Monday for Washington, D. C., where he will attend a 10-day retraining school at the National Police Academy, he said today.

The chief was granted a two-week leave of absence by Mayor Claude M. Hunter yesterday. Last year he completed a 12-week course in police work at the academy which is conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Bates received an invitation last week from J. Edgar Hoover, director of the G-Men, to attend the retraining course.

Conducted by G-Men.

The school, in session from July 13 to July 23, conducted by the G-men, drills police officers in the latest methods of scientific crime detection and investigation work. It includes textbook and practical training as well as training in the use of firearms.

During the chief's absence Capt. T. M. Bell, veteran police officer will be acting chief, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said.

Bates will receive his regular city salary as chief but will pay his own way this year, he said. Last summer $400 was raised in the city to send him to the F. B. I. course.

Americans Drink 15,000,000 Bottles Of Beverages Daily.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Americans are now drinking 15,000,000 bottles of carbonated beverages daily, according to the Liquid Carbonic corporation. This is equal to 5,475,000,000 bottles a year, or 42 bottles for each man, woman and child in the country.

Oak trees are more numerous in U. S. than in Europe.

Rich Baker Scion to Wed

Add another marriage to the list of society events of the season when George F. Baker of New York, son of the late George F. Baker and one of the richest young men in the U. S., and Frances Drexel Munn of Palm Beach, Fla., and Paris, wed Saturday at Locust Valley, L. I.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

ALLIANCE —(AP)— The moon may not be so dead as has been thought, says Dr. Walter H. Haas, Mount Union college astronomer.

His suspicion of some form of life on the moon is based on studies of Aristarchus. Aristarchus is one of the prominent craters on the moon. The ancients, lacking telescopes, thought these craters were seas.

The moon craters are from five to 60 miles in diameter, much larger than earth's volcanic craters. The walls of the moon craters are mostly steep. They stand out brilliantly in sunshine and pass into shadow. These changes make the contours very clear.

But Dr. Haas finds something puzzling in certain dark bands that appear on the walls around Aristarchus. He describes the bands in Popular Astronomy.

The dark bands do not appear to be shadows, he says. They come on gradually. They lead to a suspicion of some sort of surface change during the noonday heat on the moon.

Furthermore, Dr. Haas says this peculiar phenomenon is not confined to Aristarchus. It is brilliantly visible there, but it occurs in other craters.

Most sealing wax does not contain any wax, being composed of shellac, Venetian turpentine and coloring matter.

FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1938.

Canada reports a reduced birth rate—now that no prize is being offered for the propagation of indigents.

It appears that the filming of "Gone With the Wind" is being planned only for those who don't know the story.

As was once remarked by Thomas Jefferson: "Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want bread." So what?

Gain and Loss In Safety.

WHILE the death toll from this year's Fourth of July celebration again mounted to more than 500, it is noteworthy that only three of these fatalities were from fireworks.

This is a great forward step in the 35 years since 1903 when the Fourth of July toll of 466 deaths was mainly from fireworks and gunpowder accidents.

It may be argued that traffic accidents have more than offset the gains made against the destructiveness of fireworks and other explosives, but it should be kept in mind that only sporadic attempts have thus far been made to reduce highway hazards and to restrict driving privileges to persons who can be depended upon to drive carefully, sanely and soberly.

As matters now stand, anybody who can afford to have any kind of a car can get a driver's license in Ohio, without test of physical or mental competence and without check-up of drinking habits.

Up to this time emphasis in the automobile business has been to make car owners out of the largest possible percentage of people, regardless of their ability to drive safely. Movement toward greater traffic safety will necessarily involve stricter regulations in granting of drivers' licenses and further weeding out of careless, reckless and drunken drivers.

Self-Attained Social Security.

MORE than a third of a century on one job, with provision for retirement on pension at the age of 65, can scarcely fail to impress many people as being an ideal approach to the "social security" that is now being so much discussed.

This week's retirement of Frank C. Alger and Walter C. FitzSimmons from the Mansfield postoffice service, after employment extending through 37 and 35 years, respectively, supplies a local example of the intelligent application of a pensioning plan in which the earner makes contributions to a deferred-payment fund that insures continuance of a nominal income after retirement from regular employment.

Pensioning plans of various kinds have been in process of evolution for a number of years, notably in some branches of public employment and among the railroads.

Application of such a plan to industrial employment has been more difficult, but the idea of expanding the field of old-age pensions by deferring payment of a percentage of individual earnings is one that gives promise of considerable advancement during the next decade.

Anyhow, it is a phase of employment that is worthy of consideration by young men who are attracted by the thought of holding one job for a long time—with assurance of comfortable living from a moderate, regular income.

Don't Leave Dog In Closed Auto.

THE current issue of the National Humane Review directs attention to the thoughtlessness of at least a few motorists in leaving a dog in a parked car, in hot weather, with the windows closed.

Mentioning that such an act is an offense against the law in every state, the article continues: "It is an act of cruelty, all the worse if the car is standing in the sun. People who are fond of their dogs will not do it; people who are not fond of their dogs should not keep them. . . . Every man and woman motorist knows what it is to sit in a stationary car five minutes in the broiling sun, yet many will leave a dog for an hour or more, with the suffering growing in intensity by the minute."

This cruelty to dogs deserves the censure thus aimed at it and offenders should be subjected to penalty of the law.

While the subject is being touched on it might also be well to include reference to those occasional dumb parents who lock up a young child in a parked car while they go shopping or to some place of amusement.

It is no unusual sight on a Mansfield street to see a car in which there is a frantically screaming child—too young to understand that it has not been permanently abandoned.

The Fourth of July celebration at the Fairground last Monday night is reported to have developed a particularly distressing incident of that kind.

Be kind to your dog—and also to your child.

Free Speech In Toronto.

EVIDENTLY Canadian authorities still believe in free speech, in accordance with Anglo-Saxon law and tradition, whether they agree with the speakers or not.

"Mounted and foot police broke up anti-Fascist street demonstration on Toronto's main thoroughfare tonight. While the Canadian Fascist organization was holding a mass-meeting at Massey hall, 5,000 anti-Fascists gathered at Yonge and Albert streets only a stone's throw from the auditorium, with the advertised intention of taking direct action in the streets. This counter-demonstration was blocked by the police when it was reported that the anti-Fascists intended to storm the hall."

The occurrence interests Americans more than it would ordinarily, because of the striking contrast between the Toronto way and the Jersey City way.

Have you ever tried to punctuate the sentence: "That that is is that that is not is not that is it is it not?" An old one that some say they'd never heard.

If worst comes to worst Cleveland might try putting on a benefit double-header at the stadium as a relief measure.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — In connection with the current discussion of Jimmy Roosevelt's wealth and influence, some figures this correspondent gathered might be interesting. Our figures, near enough first hand to be satisfactory, were rounded up before the recent publication of estimates of Jimmy's insurance income. They do not indicate anything ultra fancy.

Our information is that the young Roosevelt puts the "capitalized value" of his insurance business at $150,000 to $200,000. That is a somewhat elastic factor but at the time we obtained the figures we were told that his earnings from insurance were considerably less that the "capitalized value." This latter represented the amount at which he valued his business as a going concern.

In arriving at the capitalized value of a company this procedure is followed. A company may estimate that it is making a 10 per cent profit. Then its "capitalized value" becomes 10 times its earnings. Thus, if the company's earnings are $20,000 its "capitalized value" is $200,000.

* * *

Anyway, He's Got a Job.

REVERSING the process, a company with a "capitalized value" of $200,000 might be found to have earnings of $20,000, or anything else from nearly nothing to nearly 100 times the capitalized value.

But whether Jimmy's insurance business was valued for us on the basis of 10 per cent earnings or on some other figure cannot be said.

Bits of further information coming to us indicate that he has a $13,000 equity in the $37,000 home he recently purchased at Framingham, Mass.; has $15,000 in securities, and a $10,000 trust fund set up for him by his father. In addition, his wife, Betsy, daughter of Dr. Harvey Cushing, a prominent Boston brain specialist, was described to us as having about $20,000 of her own.

Earnings on the securities and the trust, calculated at 5 per cent, would be $2,250. Besides this income, Jimmy of course gets $10,000 as secretary to the president.

* * *

Note on a Bus.

AT THIS point we turn to a little item that seems to indicate that literary talent may yet be blossoming in government bureaus, and please note that Walt Whitman once was a government clerk in Washington. We were riding in the bus that brings us to work from far off Maryland when the little brunet item sitting beside us wrote a neat bit in a small black book. No doubt she will sometime draw heavily on the little book in drafting the great American novel.

What she wrote was: "An orchid mind in a cauliflower body." It does seem to mean something.

* * *

And another thing, the Walter Johnsons certainly do eat cantaloupe. People who don't follow baseball may have forgotten that Johnson is considered by almost everybody as the greatest baseball pitcher who ever lived. We went by our favorite outdoor fruit market on the outskirts of Washington looking for cantaloupes.

"I'm sorry but I have only one left," said the manager. "Walter Johnson just came by and bought 32." We sucked in our breath and made proper exclamations about people who buy 32 at a swat, but he said:

"Well, he has a pretty big family."

(Note: We didn't buy that remaining cantaloupe. It had a soft spot.)

Wage-Hour Law Slow In Coming

—By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON—If the nation's first wage and hour law is a blur to you, back up a little, and run over the history of the thing in slow motion.

The first scenes take you back to the days before the Civil war when the steam engine was developing the foundation for a modern industrial system.

Then jump to 1900 and the birth of the automobile. Now go ahead a little way to the first assembly line, and mass production in the automobile industry.

You're up to 1910. Look at the expansion that mass production and high speed transportation started in all industrial and building activity. Note the skyscrapers in the cities and the huge mechanical harvesters in the wheat fields.

You've just run through the bare essentials of the making of industrial America. All through those early years, the job was the thing. America was developing regardless of cost or consequences or purely human elements in the picture.

But all the while, the processes of industrialization were changing lives and habits and customs. We did not stop to analyze the changes while they were going on. And neither did the men we sent to Washington to make our laws.

* * *

Voices In the Wilderness.

NEVERTHELESS, a social problem was in the making. The industrial system was creating the sweatshop. It was using children to operate machines at extremely low wages. But, the industrial leader had to show his stockholders a profit. He had to meet competition. Workers had to make a living. The natural laws of supply and demand and survival of the fittest were operating, as usual.

But these natural laws were tough on a lot of people. It was only logical that they should protest. And by 1912, the agitation had intrigued the leaders of both major political parties.

* * *

THE job of translating into law blind protests against a system was a lot easier said than done. After four years of wrangling, congress produced in 1916 the first two laws designed to meet the protests—the eight-hour law for the railroad workers and the anti-child labor law.

The supreme court tossed out the child labor law on the ground that it was a matter for the states to regulate, and not congress. The eight-hour law passed muster because the railroads crossed state lines.

Meanwhile the protests against some of the practices in industry continued. Congress responded in 1918 with a law to guarantee women workers a minimum wage in the federally operated District of Columbia. The supreme court threw that out because it seemingly interfered with an individual's right to make a contract to sell his—or her—services.

* * *

The Door Swings Open.

CONGRESS in 1924 put the child labor question up to the states in the form of a constitutional amendment, but it was never ratified. Last year, the supreme court reversed itself on minimum wages, and held that a state, at least could set up fair wage standards for women. Other decisions enlarged the meaning of interstate commerce, intimating that a similar law for businesses that cross state lines could be passed by congress.

In effect, the supreme court was cracking open the door to more modern labor legislation. The Roosevelt New Deal, with promises to the underprivileged, could hardly overlook the opportunity.

But again it was easier to talk better wages and fewer hours than to put them into law. For instance, what was to be done with such industries as canning, where the work has to be done when the tomatoes or the salmon are ready? And what about competing industries, like cotton and wool textiles, when one was a low-wage industry and the other fairly high? Could you give one the advantage overnight?

For nearly two years now, congress has been wrestling with such questions. Three trial balloons were sent up, and shot down by critics and experts. Now comes the fourth—a compromise.

Naturally, a law that's gone through as much difficult history as the wage and hour bill of 1938 cannot be appraised offhand either as good or bad. It is simply a beginning in a tricky legislative field—a beginning toward a 40-cent minimum wage and a 40-hour week, with modifications for industries and sections of the country, especially the south.

* * *

How It Stacks Up.

YOU can judge how much of a beginning it is by this: Conservative statisticians in the government estimate that no more than 300,000 persons will get more pay or work fewer hours at the start.

But there are a couple of important points to watch:

1. You should remember that it is now the policy of the United States government to assure workers enough wages to promote their "health, efficiency, and well-being." Before now, the natural laws of supply and demand, and survival of the fittest, were supreme in that field. Will Uncle Sam be successful?

2. Also, you will constantly hear the 40-cent hour and the 40-hour week discussed in the press, on the radio, and in workshops, homes, clubs — everywhere. Will it become a national yardstick for wages and hours? That's what happened to the "eight-hour day" in 1916.

Each Driver Has 'Safe' Speed

WE HAVE still to learn how to live with the automobile, according to an editorial in the current issue of the Rotarian Magazine, both as pedestrians and drivers we are much at the mercy of other drivers. At the wheel, we are also at the mercy of ourselves, when our driving skill is inadequate And in a sense, we are at the mercy of the machine.

For one thing, many modern motorcars can go faster than many modern drivers can think—and act. "Cannonball" Baker, professional record-smasher, who has driven more than 3 million miles, often at forced speeds, and who has had only one accident and that when his own car was standing still, says: "The average man's reflexes are not fast enough to handle the top speeds of today's automobiles."

Each driver has a "safe" speed. It is a balance of his personal reflexes against his car's speed. It is a speed that is right for him, given his physiological and mental makeup. For some exceptional drivers this "safe" speed may be high, but for many it is certainly not more than 40 or 45 miles an hour . . .

But the campaign for highway safety—while it focuses chiefly on eliminating auto deaths and maimings, as, patently, it ought to—has other aspects. For instance, bad conduct on the highways can pump up the blood pressure, perhaps can harden the arteries, and surely can upset the digestion, and with it one's peace of mind.

Here is a driver—and where is he not?—who feels that that car ahead, moving a little slower than his own, must be passed at all costs, that the light must be beaten, that any other driver on the road who seems to violate the rules or infringe on his pride, must be disciplined with inner angers and perhaps with downright discourtesy and cursing. Of course, he may cause no accident. He may leave the death and injury toll where he found it. But the resultant turmoil has a price—and he will pay it, in frayed nerves, in an overworked heart.

Yes, we must not only make the highways safe for others, but we must also make them safe for ourselves. We must learn how to drive with serenity. Otherwise we are not driving the car. It is driving us.

You Make Your Own Luck.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU wish you had more luck. What do you mean by luck? You don't know exactly. It's a mystery. It's something that happens to some people and doesn't happen to others. Something that gives some people the breaks without any effort on their part.

Things like that happen to lucky people. They never happen to you. You wish they did. But of course there's nothing you can do about it.

Are you sure of that? Are you quite sure that luck is something outside yourself over which you have no control?

Most people do think about luck in that way, but others have discovered an amazing secret. They have discovered that luck isn't an "outside something" but that it is an adjustment within the man himself—that a man can make his own luck.

Waldemar Bonsells once put it this way:

"I often yield to the impulse to use as a spring board any lath which chance has thrown under my feet. Of course, he who would take such ventures must be able to jump, and 'ability to jump' is an essence what most people term 'having luck.' There is no such thing as 'having luck.' What is called luck is intimately associated with adroitness, just as ill-luck is intimately associated with maladroitness."

Luck is not the thing that happens to you from outside. LUCK IS THE WAY YOU TAKE THAT THING INSIDE.

Luck is the "ability to jump," the ability to use any incident or impulse as a springboard to a wider opportunity.

But luck does not come with one jump. Luck comes only after a man has jumped many times, has accumulated the courage to take jumps in the face of possible disaster and ridicule.

For jumps do not always end luckily. Many an impulsive adventure leads nowhere. Often the jumper is misjudged by more cautious folk, who watch his antics with a scornful eye, calling him eccentric or even worse.

BUT SLOWLY AND SURELY THAT MAN IS MAKING HIS LUCK.

Some day his chance will come. Some trivial opportunity will present itself. It may not seem any more important than a thousand opportunities which have gone before. But because that man has acquired the ability to use any opportunity as a springboard he will take a chance, and then the courage and initiative and agility which he has built up during a thousand failures will sweep him on to success.

The man who discovers a gold mine, for instance. The woman who gets a chance to go on a trip around the world. These things did not come through "fool's luck." They came because those people had prepared themselves for their coming. They had taken chances. They had broken down inhibitions within themselves, cultivated their imaginations. They had "the ability to jump." So when the gold glinted underfoot, or the ship waited on the beach, they were ready.

You want luck?

How ready are you for luck?

Would you know it if you saw it? Could you take it if it came?

Good News For Children.

If your doctor has been advising you to take cod liver oil and you don't like it, how would you like to shift to a "charged" egg for breakfast as a source of vitamin D? Out at Ames, Ia., at the Iowa state college, Dr. H. B. Thomas is working on such a plan for you.

Tests made by experimental feeding of hens prove that an egg can be produced containing as much vitamin D as is contained in three teaspoonfuls of cod liver oil. Dr. Thomas began the experiments at the request of physicians who prefer to prescribe some normal, tasty food as the source of the vitamin. It seems the doctor doesn't like to see the children making faces over their cod liver oil. Vitamin D is a cure for rickets.

The experiments have been in progress for two years and are slow because all results are tried out on rats. The method is to keep the rat on a deficient diet until he gets rickety, and then feed him back to health with the eggs. —Detroit News.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Brooklyn Bridge at night continues to be a favorite vantage point for artists who wish to capture something of Manhattan's after dark eminence. The arch of the bridge just beyond midstream affords a magnificent view of the sleeping city with its winking windows and folding tiers of skyscrapers. John Barrymore, who aspired to art long before he became an actor, once sketched the island from this point. And rare is the exhibit that does not contain at least one canvas wrought in the spell of white stars over blue water with the long length of the island behind.

But personally I prefer the Hudson view to any from the East river side. Manhattan at dusk from a ferry in midstream or from any of the Palisade promontories is so breath-takingly beautiful as to defy description. It hangs in a haze of unreality, almost a mirage which is tinged with a blue that makes one think of Maxfield Parrish. As the blue deepens the lights wink on like millions of fireflies, and then it is that New York takes on an enchantment to be found only in a fairy tale or a Walt Disney picture.

A HANDWRITING expert reveals that sporting people almost invariably write in a bold, straightforward style. Gene Tunney's signature, for instance, is expansive which probably indicates unbounded confidence. Jack Dempsey's hand is rather cramped but steady. Lou Gehrig and Carl Hubbell both write with an even flow.

However, this same authority explains that theatrical folk are usually just the opposite from people of the sporting world. It is well known that Sir Henry Irving possessed the worst scrawl on record. There is a story about Sir Henry which you may have heard, but since it illustrates this thesis you will have to bear with it again.

It is said that Sir Henry once wrote a note to the box-office man in his own theater, requesting a pair of tickets for a friend. When the note was delivered the box-office man shook his head. "I'm sorry," he said, "but you must want the drugstore next door. We don't mix prescriptions here."

HELEN HAYES, who is just back from a coast-to-coast theatrical tour, says the most beautiful flowers she saw anywhere were the bluebonnets in Texas. . . . The best food, she says, was found in Memphis, where she ate fried chicken, and New Orleans, where they ate pompano.

More than 30 plays lasted less than four weeks on Broadway this year. Many of them lasted less than a week and five of them called it a day after one performance.

BULKLEY GIVEN 'BLESSING' IN MARIETTA TALK

At the conclusion of his speech, he dedicated a Gutzon Borglum monument marking territory settlement while a band played the Star Spangled Banner.

The presidential party left almost immediately for Covington, Ky., where the president is to speak at 3:30 p. m. at Latonia race track. His speech was anxiously awaited by Kentuckians who are witnessing a heated campaign for the senatorial nomination between Sen. Alben W. Barkley, New Deal favorite, and Gov. A. B. Chandler.

His address was devoted chiefly to a discussion of the "human parallel" of the migration to the West in the 18th century and today's "mental migration....to create new conditions — of security."

Continuing that parallel, after referring to New Deal laws which protect savings accounts and homes, he said that the cavalry captain who protected the log cabins of the northwest territory "is now supplanted by legislators, like Senator Bulkley, toiling over the drafting of such statutes and over the efficiency of government machinery to administer them so that such protection and help of government can be extended to the full."

"Full Endorsement."

This was the president's only reference to Bulkley who faces a difficult primary race on Aug. 9 against former Gov. George White, whose home is in Marietta and who introduced the president here today. But it was expected that this statement would be interpreted as full administration endorsement of Ohio's senior senator as one of the liberal candidates on whose side the president has announced he would align himself as head of the Democratic party.

Later today the president is expected to reveal exactly how far, politically, he intends to go in addresses on this trip when he speaks in Kentucky, the home state of his senate majority leader, Alben W. Barkley, who is opposed in the primary by Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

In his address here the president appealed to the people to remember that "the ultimate rulers of our democracy are not a president and senators and congressmen and government officials but the voters of this country."

"Let us not be afraid to help each other—let us never forget that government is ourselves and not an alien power over us," he said.

"I believe that the American people, not afraid of their own capacity to choose forward-looking representatives to run their government, want the same co-operative security and have the same courage to achieve it, in 1938 as 1788. I am sure they know that we will always have a frontier—of social problems—and that we must always move in to bring law and order to it.."

He praised the men and women who established Marietta 150 years ago, and recalled that right behind them "moved that instrument of law and order and co-operation—government." Describing some of the aims of that early settlement here he said that they paralleled those of today.

"Every generation meets substantially the same problems under its own different set of circumstances," he said. "Anyone speculating on our great migration westward is struck with the human parallel between the driving force behind that migration and the driving force behind the great social exploration we are carrying on today.

"The standard of life in a log cabin was not high, but it was certain. A family or at most a township, could be a whole self-sufficing economic system. . . .

"Under such conditions there was so much to get done which men could not get done alone, that the frontiersmen naturally reached out—to government—as their greatest single instrument of co-operative self-help with the aid of which they could get things done.

"They looked on government not as a thing apart—as a power over our people. They regarded it as a power of the people, as a democratic expression of organized self-help like a frontier husking bee."

Today, he continued, the whole nation "is on a mental migration, dissatisfied with old conditions, seeking like the little band that came to Marietta to create new conditions—of security."

But today, "many a man does not own his own cabin," he said. And "scarcely any man can call his neighbors to raise the roof any more."

"In these perplexities the individual turns, as he has always turned, to the collective security of the willingness of his fellows to co-operate through the use of government to help him and each other," Mr. Roosevelt said. "The spirit of the frontier husking bee is found today in carefully-drafted statutes—statutes insuring bank deposits; statutes providing mortgage money for homes through FHA; statutes providing help through HOLC for those in danger of foreclosure.

"On a thousand fronts government—state and municipal as well as federal—is playing the same role of the insurer of security for the average man, woman and child that the army detachments played in the early days of the old Northwest territory.

"When you think it through, at the bottom most of the great protective statutes of today are in essence mutual insurance companies, and our recent legislation is not a departure from but a return to the healthy practices of mutual self-help of the early settlers of the northwest."

The Roosevelt schedule calls for rear platform appearances at Louisville at 6 p. m. and at Bowling Green at 6:50.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., and Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, saw the president off from Washington last night.

LAUNCH DRIVE TO VALENCIA

Two Insurgent Regiments March To 'Key' City.

HENDAYE, France —(AP)— Two insurgent columns strucks down the broad Mediterranean coast plains of eastern Spain today toward Almenara, known since the 13th century as the "Key to Valencia."

Advance elements of Gen. Miguel Aranda's troops reported they were less than five miles from the ruined Moorish castle guarding the pass through the Del Cid mountains to Valencia Province.

Almenara is about eight miles north of Sagunto, junction of highways to Valencia, 17 miles farther south.

TEXT OF TALK BY PRESIDENT

Find Mental Migration Now Underway as He Speaks in Pioneer City.

to Vinland, in a spirit all of adventure. But the men and women of the Ohio company who came to Marietta came rather like an organized society, unafraid to meet temporary adventure, but serious in seeking permanent security. Many of them were destined to push on; but most came intending to stay. Such people may not be the first to conquer the earth, but they always last possess it.

Right behind the men and women who established Marietta one hundred and fifty years ago moved that instrument of law and order and co-operation—a government. A representative of the national government entered Marietta to administer the Northwest territory under the famous Northwest ordinance. And what we are celebrating today is this establishment of the first civil government west of the original 13 states.

Cites Three Provisions.

Three provisions of the Northwest ordinance I always like to remember.

It provided that "no person demeaning himself in a peaceable and orderly manner shall ever be molested on account of his mode of worship or for religious sentiment in the said territory."

It provided that "religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and means of education shall forever be encouraged."

And it provided for the perpetual prohibition of slavery in the territory.

Free, educated, God-fearing men and women—that is what the 13 states hoped the new west would exemplify. It has well fulfilled that hope.

Every generation meets substantially the same problems under its own different set of circumstances. Anyone speculating on our great migration westward is struck with the human parallel between the driving force behind that migration and the driving force behind the great social exploration we are carrying on today.

Most of the people who went out to Ohio in 1788 and who followed wave on wave for another hundred years went to improve their economic lot. In other words, they were following the same yearning for security which is driving us today.

Freedom Worth Risk.

At the end of the wagon ruts there was something worth the physical risks. The standard of life in a log cabin amid fields still blackened with half-burned stumps was not high, but it was certain. A family, or at most a township, could be a whole self-sufficing economic system—plenty of food to eat if a man would but reach out and shoot or cultivate it; plenty of warm clothes if the women of the family were willing to spin; always a tight roof over the family's head if the little community would respond to the call of a roof-raising.

Whatever he used was a man's own; he had the solid joy of possession—of owning his home and his means of livelihood. And if things did not pan out there was always an infinite self-sufficiency beckoning westward—to new land, new game, new opportunity.

Under such conditions there was so much to get done which men could not get done alone, that the frontiersmen naturally reached out—to government — as their greatest single instrument of co-operative self-help with the aid of which they could get things done. To them the use of government was but another form of the co-operation of good neighbors.

Power of the People.

Government was an indispensable instrument of their daily lives, of the security of their women and their children and their homes and their opportunities. They looked on government not as a thing apart—as a power over our people. They regarded it as a power of the people, as a democratic expression of organized self-help.

There were worried legalists back in the seaboard towns who were sure it was unconstitutional for the federal government to help to put roads and railroads and canals through these new territories—who were sure that the nation would never get back the money it was plowing into development of the natural and human resources of the northwest.

But Abraham Lincoln summed up their attitude when he said: "The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do at all, or cannot do so well, for themselves, in their separate and individual capacities."

Mental Migration On.

Today under new conditions a whole nation the original 13 states and all the west and south that has grown out of them, is on a mental migration, dissatisfied with old conditions, seeking like the little band that came to Marietta to create new conditions—of security. And again the people see an ally in their own government.

Scarcely any man can call his neighbors to raise his roof any more—he pays a contractor cash and has to have mortgage financing to find the cash. And if that financing is of the wrong kind—or goes bad—he may need help to save his home from foreclosure.

Once old age was safe because there was always something useful which men and women, no matter how old, might do to earn an honorable maintenance. That time is gone; and some new kind of organized old-age insurance has to be provided.

In these perplexities the individual turns, as he has always turned, to the collective security of the willingness of his fellows to co-operate through the use of government to help him and each other. The spirit of the frontier husking bee is found today in carefully-drafted statutes—statutes insuring bank deposits; statutes providing mortgage money for homes through FHA; statutes providing help through HOLC for those in danger of foreclosure. The cavalry captain who protected the log cabins of the northwest is now supplanted by legislators, like Senator Bulkley, toiling over the drafting of such statutes and over the efficiency of government machinery to administer them so that such protection and help of government can be extended to the full.

On a thousand fronts government—state and municipal as well as federal—is playing the same role of the insurer of security for the average man, woman and child that the army detachments played in the early days of the old Northwest territory. When you think it through, at the bottom most of the great protective statutes of today are in essence mutual insurance companies, and our recent legislation is not a departure from but a return to the healthy practices of mutual self-help of the early settlers of the northwest.

'Let's Help Each Other.'

Let us not be afraid to help each other—let us never forget that government is ourselves and not an alien power over us. The ultimate rulers of our democracy are not a president and senators and congressmen and government officials but the voters of this country.

I believe that the American people, not afraid of their own capacity to choose forward-looking representatives to run their government, want the same co-operative security and have the same courage to achieve it, in 1938 as in 1788. I am sure they know that we will always have a frontier—or social problems—and that we must always move in to bring law and order to it. In that confidence I am pushing on. I am sure you will push on with me.

Miss Straub Was Lifelong Resident of Washington Township.

Miss Margaret Straub a lifelong resident of Washington township, died at noon today at the home of her niece, Mrs. Herbert A. Dillon, 56 Hammond avenue. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

STRIKERS LOSE

Majority of Employes Refuse To Strike At Shoe Company.

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—A threatened strike of employes of the Selby Shoe company was blocked today by an election in which a majority of the workers voted against a walkout.

John E. Addicks, federal labor conciliator, said 1,015 voters opposed striking for restoration of a 10 per cent wage reduction, while 967 favored quitting.

CAMERA CLUB CHOOSES NAME

Picture Group to Be Known as 'Mansfield Photographic Society.'

Mansfield camera enthusiasts, meeting for the second time last night, chose "The Mansfield Photographic Society" as the name for the newly-organized group.

Approximately 40 members were entertained with an illustrated lecture, "Seeing Things for Keeps." The program, presented through the courtesy of the Eastman Kodak company, portrayed methods in taking pictures.

They also saw a print exhibit sent here by the Canton Camera club. Two of the prints were made by Arthur Alleshouse, a member of the Mansfield group. Paul Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, showed movies taken in Mansfield schools.

The program committee, headed by William Karchner gave the group as its first picture assignment, Central park. Members are required to make photographs in the park and then present them at the next meeting Aug. 7, for comparison.

A special committee also discussed the advisability of holding a city-wide photographic contest. Prizes are planned for the winners.

SIX YEARS OLD

CHICAGO—(AP)—Today was the sixth anniversary of the low point of the great depression.

July 8, 1932, according to many economic charts, was the nadir of the deep downswing in prices which started in the fall of 1929 after the stock market crash.

'NEWS TO ME' SAYS JASTER OF OUSTER RUMORS

Highway Director Says Davey Discussed Changes But Not For His Job.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Highway Director John J. Jaster, jr., of Cleveland, said today Gov. Martin L. Davey planned to order some changes in the highway department, but asserted reports that the governor would oust him were "news" to him.

The Columbus Dispatch said that, according to state house rumors, Jaster would be ousted because of recent criticism of the administration of the state highway department. The criticism came from a Davey-appointed investigating committee and Common Pleas Judge Henry L. Scarlett, who said the department promoted the stifling of competition among highway contract bidders.

Discussed Changes.

"The governor did discuss some changes within the department with me, but the information must come from the governor's office," Jaster said.

Ralph J. Bartlett, Franklin county prosecutor, today began a study of the inquiry committee's report and the decision of Judge Scarlett to determine if there existed any basis for criminal prosecution.

Thomas W. McGlinchey of Columbus, chairman of a group known as the removal committee and an organizer for the anti-liquor league, said that petitions were being circulated seeking the removal of Governor Davey for alleged "misconduct in office" in connection with the alleged assessment of salaries of civil service employes for the governor's third term campaign.

He asserted that the 60,000 signatures necessary to ask a court to remove him probably would be filed with the second district appellate court before the Aug. 9 primary.

Here Are Highlights of President's Marietta Address

MARIETTA—Highlights of President Roosevelt's speech today.

"Let us not be afraid to help each other—let us never forget that government is ourselves and not an alien power over us."

"I believe that the American people, not afraid of their own capacity to choose forward-looking representatives to run their government, want the same co-operative security and have the same courage to achieve it, in 1938 as in 1788."

"Free, educated, god-fearing men and women—that is what the 13 states hoped the new west would exemplify. It has well fulfilled that hope."

"Today, under new conditions, a whole nation . . . is on a mental migration."

"Anyone speculating on our great migration westward is struck with the human parallel between the driving force behind that migration and the driving force behind the great social exploration we are carrying on today."

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

THE WALNUT TREE

IN SPRING when all other trees are out in leaf, except the light barked sycamore and hickory nut, the black walnut begins tardily to unfold its large, peculiar buds. As these enlarge, from day to day, until the new growth has reached a length of four inches or more, leaves grow outward from either side, and at their base a heavy, delicate stem grows upright, with forklike branches on the top.

These are the imperfect flowers of the tree, and beneath each sticky terminal is concealed the ovary, waiting for the pollen.

Meanwhile, just back of where the new growth starts, a wormlike catkin hangs upon a slender stem. Each little section on the outer side is yellow, and when fully ripe, the light yellow dust rises on the gentlest breeze and touches the stigma of the flower borne on the higher branch.

So the seed is formed. For where the drab flower was, I saw, upon a woody stem, three small green spheres. I looked and found all the branches well loaded, too

I sat beneath its grateful shade. The compound leaves were green and tender and waved in the summer breeze. The air was cool beneath this tree, for much moisture was evaporating from the surface of all the leaves.

I thought of autumn and the time the tree would drop its fruit. Here boys and girls would gather nuts, and crack the soft, odorous outer husk upon a stone, and fill their sacks with the moist walnuts. Their hands become as black as ink that soap and water cannot erase. It wears off after a while, but the memory is indelible.

The wood is a purplish brown, and has a grayish cast when finely finished. It is the most valuable of all our forest trees.

The nuts for planting should be placed in gravel in the fall, and dug up in the spring.

TALKS SUNDAY

Chinese Native to Speak at Perrysville Church.

PERRYSVILLE—Miss Ida Chang, a native Chinese, will be the principal speaker at the "Bowl of Rice" service for the Perrysville community which will be held Sunday evening in the local Baptist church.

The service, sponsored by the Red Cross, will be held in the interests of raising funds for the starving people in war and flood devastated China.

Miss Chang is spending several weeks as a guest of Miss Dora Zimmerman near Perrysville. Several years ago Miss Zimmerman was an instructor in a girls' school in China in which Miss Chang was at that time a student.

Booked to sail for America on the "President Hoover," which was badly bombed by the Japanese, Miss Chang was spared passing through that experience because of a last minute delay.

Bomb Leaves 40 Dead, Hurt In New Holy Land Terror

RIOTS RESUME DESPITE HUGE BRITISH GUARD

Explosive Wrecks Loaded Bus, Causes Injuries to Many in Busy Market Place.

(By Associated Press)

JERUSALEM—A bomb blast at Jerusalem's busy Jaffa gate today killed four Arabs and wounded 36 in a new outbreak of deadly terror which Great Britain is trying to crush with warships and troop reinforcements.

Call General Strike.

About the same time a general strike broke out in Amman, in neighboring Transjordan. Workers struck in sympathy with Palestine Arabs, victims of bomb throwings at Haifa, Palestine's chief port.

Today's violence raised the casualties in nine days of riots and tension to 37 killed and 150 injured.

The British battle cruiser Repulse, one of the world's biggest battleships, steamed into Haifa harbor to take the place of the 7,500-ton British cruiser Emerald. The Repulse trained her cannon on Haifa.

Two battalions—at least 1,600 men—of British troops rushed from Egypt to reinforce the 10,000 British soldiers, armed police, and aviators who had failed to halt the bloody reign of terror which Jewish leaders feared might develop into civil war between Jews and Arabs.

Officers planned to put the area under naval control. Marines with bared bayonets and loaded rifles were ready for emergency landings.

Planes Ready.

Eleven squadrons of the British air force kept their machines tuned for quick flights and quick bombings of any town or village where any fresh disorder might burst out.

The trouble started nine days ago with the hanging of a 19-year-old Jew for ambushing an Arab bus and has become the most serious in recent Palestine history.

Abd El Razzak, notorious brigand chieftain, wrote a grim paragraph on a tragic page of Holy Land history by sending a "proclamation" to the town of Tulkarem, occupied by British troops, demanding that inhabitants pay him $7,500 tribute as "commander-in-chief of the rebellion."

Arab tribes from Transjordan were reported massed on the Palestine frontier.

Discharged Farm Worker Sought In Triple Killing

OSSEO, Minn.—(INS)—A statewide hunt was in progress today for the rifleman who slew a farmer, his wife, who was an expectant mother, and their farmhand as they slept after a party early yesterday.

Those killed were Kenneth Oswald and his wife, Paula, a University of Minnesota graduate, and John Kuhawa. All three were 24. Mrs. Oswald was expecting the birth of a baby in a short time.

The unnamed killer was suspected of being a former employe of Oswald on their Maple Grove farm, who had been discharged several weeks ago for writing worthless checks. He was believed to have escaped in the Oswald truck that had been stolen from the barn.

Married about a year the Oswalds had entertained a group of friends on Wednesday night. The party broke up late and the couple retired without cleaning the house. The dishes were still on the table when Oswald's father entered yesterday morning. He had become alarmed and driven to the farm from his home here when no one answered the telephone at the house.

'Back to Work' Trek Starts In U. S. Industry

Up and Down THE STREET

In preparation for the August primary in which he hopes to obtain approval of his proposed $1,000,000 school building program, Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools is vacationing on a Carroll county farm this week. Reached by telephone this morning on a business matter, Miller said he was wielding a paint brush and acquiring a "healthful brown that would put a beach tan to shame."

Carlton Fernyak thought he'd like to do a bit of fishing one day so he went out and caught a 275-pound black sea bass . . . Sounds awfully fishey, doesn't it? But Fernyak can prove it with pictures. While on the western trip from which he just returned, he spent a day at Catalina island and went out with several "big-time" fishermen. He was trolling with a "flying fish," 10 inches long, for a bait, when he got his big strike. It took an hour and 37 minutes to bring the "whopper" in. Fernyak caught several other fish too, he says, but they were just "little fellas"—not over 50 or 60 pounds. Incidentally, Fernyak kept in touch with his home town through the newspapers and in the San Francisco News read of the Mansfield burglar who stopped to drink milk at several places he robbed.

Art Hilborn, 211 Vennum avenue, was limping today because the days aren't long enough for him to get in his daily golf game. Not satisfied with the golf he plays in the daylight, Hilborn often plays well into the dark. His enthusiasm brought him a badly swollen leg, the result of a drive from the club of a golfer who apparently is as enthusiastic over the game as Art. Incidentally, this cured him of night golfing.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley often get together on financial matters, and today they observed their birthday anniversaries together. Just what anniversary they did not care to mention, however. The year as a whole promises to be a big one for Wolfe. One of the reasons is that he's due to be re-elected without opposition in the fall election. Another is that there's an addition to the Wolfe family due in the near future.

20, ENDS LIFE

Holmes County Girl Commits Suicide With Shotgun.

MILLERSBURG—Miss Evelyn Stoner, 20, died this morning from a self-inflicted shotgun wound at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stoner, at Trail, O., 18 miles east of here.

Despondency over ill health was believed to be the cause of the girl's suicide, according to Coroner W. B. Wild of Holmes county. He said that she had gone into a closet where the gun was kept, had taken off her right shoe and slit a hole in the foot of her stocking so she could operate the trigger with her toe. She then leaned over the barrel of the gun, he said, and pressed the trigger, the shot entering her heart. She died instantly, the coroner said. Her parents were in the garden at the time.

Miss Stoner graduated from the Dundee high school two years ago, but had been in ill health for some time. She is survived by her parents; two brothers, Ray, at home, and Roy, of Baltimore, Md., and three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Cline and Mrs. Mary Hachtel of Dundee, and Mrs. Alice Bingham of Wooster.

The body was removed to the S. P. Everhart funeral home at Dundee. Funeral arrangements were incomplete today.

COUNTY NATIVE DIES IN CHINA

Mrs. Ora Oldt, 58, Served as Missionary Since 1907; Born in Lexington.

Mrs. Ora Maxwell Oldt, 58, a native of Lexington, who had served as a missionary in China since 1907, died in Hong Kong, China, June 29, it was learned here today.

Appointed a missionary by the United Brethren church in 1907, Mrs. Oldt had served in China since. She also assisted her husband, Dr. Frank Oldt, who survives, in medical work at Siu Lam and Canton, South China.

Mrs. Oldt was a witness to the recent bombings of Canton by Japanese forces, and was active in ministering to the hundreds of wounded who crowded the hospitals. She also aided in providing for the many refugees who stormed Canton during the early days of the war.

Mrs. Oldt was widely known throughout the United Brethren church circles because of her extensive field work during her furloughs in America.

The survivors include two daughters, Dr. Ruth Mary Oldt of the Western Reserve medical school, Cleveland, and Margaret of Cleveland, and a son, Max, of Crooksville.

ASHLAND WOMAN TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Clara Tobias, 42, Dies Today; Funeral To Be Monday.

YOUNG WIDOW FOUND SLAIN IN HOME; POLICE QUIZ HER LOVER

(By International News Service)

CENTRALIA, Ill.—The semi-nude body of a pretty young widow with a bullet through her heart caused a police inquiry today to determine if her death was self-inflicted.

The victim was Miss Mary Britton, 29, formerly of Louisville, who resumed her maiden name after the death of her husband several years ago. She was found dead late yesterday beside the bed in her expensively furnished home here.

A revolver was lying nearby and a note clutched in her hand declared she was broken-hearted because Elvin Satterlee, 40, wealthy owner of a motor company agency here, had fallen in love with another woman.

Satterlee, who is married, said he and a friend, Arthur Donie, had found the body upon their return from a business trip to St. Louis at dinner time.

He admitted, according to Police Chief William Kaelin, having rented the house for Miss Britton and that he had supported her for the past three years. He denied, the chief said, that Miss Britton had a rival.

Chief Kaelin said there were several puzzling features in the case although the young woman had apparently killed herself in a fit of despondency.

FAMILY SPLIT

New Troubles Heap on Count Because of Barbara's Case.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Dissension has arisen in the family of Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow as the result of his marital dispute with Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow, it was reported today.

As the result of the public airing of the count's differences with his wife, it was said, he is no longer on speaking terms with his elder brother, County Henry, head of the family.

The brothers have had differences on three occasions since Court's marriage to the $40,000,000 Woolworth five and ten cent store heiress, informants said.

Now, they reported, there has been no communication between them since Court was made a defendant on the threats charge.

SMOKE BEGINS TO SPOUT FROM PLANTS AGAIN

Business Barometers Creep Upward on Heels of Stock Market Boom.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Re-hired workers answering calls to return to jobs in mill and factory crossed paths today with vacation-bound employes along the nation's industrial highways and byroads.

A nation-wide sampling of trade and manufacturing centers indicated scattered employment gains since business barometers began to creep forward recently and a leaping bull market upset Wall Street's traditions of summer quiet.

Attracting attention as counter-seasonal tendencies in certain industries rather than for the extent of the increase, the gains lifted factory job figures by thousands in some places and left observers wondering whether the employment tide had turned after ebbing since last summer.

Textile Industry Gains.

Shut-downs for vacations or inventory reduction obscured reopenings and enlarged working schedules. Not much net change for the time being was apparent. But gains in textiles, hoes, building and other lines showing the most pronounced inclination to move ahead were watched in the financial district at heralding possibly wider increases by autumn.

From steel towns came word observers were expecting more jobs when mills come out of early July shutdowns.

Government efforts to speed spending for housing, public works and shipbuilding were counted a front rank factor in the employment outlook in construction and allied industries.

Estimates of the national industrial conference board, a private research organization, indicated more than 4,000,000 workers would have to be returned to jobs in industry to regain levels at which recovery stopped last year.

Its latest figures, for May, put employment at 10,310,000 compared with 6,192,000 a year before.

Heavy forward buying in cotton cloth and key raw material markets the last two weeks were taken as foreshadowing production gains. Temporarily the buying served in part merely to clear away unsold goods rather than lift factory and mine output. At some mills first effects were noted in the stretching of work weeks.

STALL DRIVE

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Japan's big offensive to reach Hankow stalled today as the Japanese army confronted new danger from guerilla bands on widely separated fronts.

These bands of Chinese irregulars for the past year have been attacking from the rear and limiting Japanese control of occupied areas to the major railway lines, a few highways, and large cities like Nanking, Peiping and Tientsin.

Night attacks have increased sharply in the past week in Hopeh province about Peiping, in East Honan about Kaifent and Suchow, and in other regions.

Japanese seeking to end this danger to their communications lines reported from Peiping that two towns were captured today.

EARL CONN, 44, DIES IN TOLEDO

Former Mansfielder Stricken After Illness of Only Few Hours.

Funeral services for Earl Conn, 44, a former resident of Mansfield, who died at his home in Toledo Wednesday, will be held at the Birkenkamp funeral home, Toledo, at 1 p. m. Saturday. A native of Washington township, Mr. Conn died after an illness of a few hours.

The survivors include his wife, three children, Bertha, Eilene and Eiler; his parents; two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Hoffman of Mansfield and Mrs. Joseph Simmeth of Bristol, Cal.; and five brothers, Howard, Ernest and Kenneth of Mansfield, Lloyd of Missouri and Fred of Amoy.

GEN. JOHNSON:

Are We Going to Run Out of Oil or Will We Find A New Supply Source?

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—From time to time we have a more or less robust scare about exhaustion of our oil reserves. The first one, I remember, was during the World war, and the confidential figures of some engineers gave the government real concern.

That was 20 years ago, when not very much was known about what lies two miles underground in a country of continental extent. Since then the surface of the country in most likely areas has been honeycombed with probes. Tremendous improvements in methods of discovery and drilling have been made. Some areas have been drilled over again three or four times at ever increasing depths. Vast new reserves have thus been brought in. Production has been kept constantly ahead of a marvelously increasing demand.

* * *

At the request of Gov. Marland of Oklahoma, an independent petroleum engineer, Alex McCoy, submitted a new and exhaustive study early this year. It was made for the benefit of the governors of those oil-producing states that are bound in a compact to prorate and conserve production. A copy of it got to Washington and gave this government new concern. It is based on so much better and more complete information than previous oil exhaustion scares as to suggest a subject that needs debate and discussion.

* * *

It fixes the total crude oil reserves, developed and undeveloped, at 13 billion barrels. We have thus far produced in our history 20 billion barrels, and estimated demand for the next 20 years is 34 billion barrels. On these figures, to meet the demand for two decades, we would have to discover, in addition to present reserves, 28 billion barrels of new oil, which is the rate of discovery since 1924. But our past vast exploration has so covered the country that the rate of discovery in the past seven years has declined 50 per cent. The cost of discovery and development is increasing rapidly. If we do not get this discovery, we may be out of oil long before 20 years have passed.

These conclusions of the McCoy report are alarming. It can't foresee all developments, but if it is only half right, it is still gloomy reading. Big operating oil companies have to purchase crude. They don't like to hear talk about dwindling supplies. It boosts price.

* * *

One brighter side of the picture is that old operations have left lots of oil in the ground that newer and better methods may go back and recover—by mining oil or by water pressure. Another is the so-called hydrogenation process by which gasoline can be made out of coal. This has been perfected, and it is only a question of relative production cost as to its operation. If crude oil went much above $2 a barrel, we would probably begin making gasoline that way. The very drilling operations that have revealed this possible shortage of petroleum also have shown an unsuspected and tremendous reserve of coal.

Thus, at the worst, oil exhaustion may not spell catastrophe, but it certainly suggests much higher prices for gasoline, and what far-reaching economic effects this might have on a country that practically floats on gasoline would be hard to guess.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

NEW YORK—Now I know why movie people come to New York. In this biggest, noisiest, rushing-est of American cities, they can find peace and quiet. They can get away from it all.

If you're a movie star and you or your press agent or both desire it, you also can get INTO it all. If your P. A. heralds your coming loudly enough, you may be met by a couple of photographers at the Grand Central. And if you're a glamor boy and they shush-shush your sailing loudly enough, you may even find a couple of autograph-hunting girls under your bunk when the ship pulls out.

But as we from Hollywood understand it, all is peace and quiet in New York.

* * *

If Robert Taylor walked into a restaurant in Hollywood, he would have at least a mild attack of writer's cramp before he reached his table. He would be slightly disarranged as to clothing, probably a bit flushed in the face, and a myriad of goggling eyes would follow with scientific interest each round-trip of his fork between plate and face.

In New York the other day Taylor walked into Toots Schorr's Tavern with a small party of friends, sat down even as you and I, and finished the business of lunch quite undisturbed.

At the 21 club Hiram Sherman (comic hit of "The Shoemaker's Holiday") and Orson Welles (a real boy wonder to make Hollywood green-eyed) sat an hour or two the other day without once being ogled.

At first this kind aloofness seems to indicate that New Yorkers are merely blase. But after a while you get the idea: New York believes in laissez-faire.

* * *

Not that a star can't get mobbed in this old town. Mae West got hers at Loew's State, and Martha Raye at the Paramount, and Jimmy Cagney when he attended his sister's graduation at Hunter college. Clark Gable and Robert Taylor both have been pursued by hysterical women—so much so that Gable, back in the comparatively safe madhouse of Hollywood, swore off unnecessary trips east.

But generally, if a P. A. wants that sort of thing, he has to advertise where his people will be, and plant the persons who will lead the sheep to his star's slaughter.

He Loves Girl Who Refuses His Attentions

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Once I met a pretty girl in a ballroom. She was the prettiest I ever knew. It wasn't just like meeting another girl friend who would at some time pass out of your life. Everything about her seemed different, and everything she said made me very fond of her. We always danced nicely together, sometimes as many as four dances in one evening.

"It happened that one night she turned me down when I asked her for a dance. Ever since then she has refused to dance with me. I don't see her at the present time. I realize I did act in a way she didn't like several times, but she should have known I was only kidding. Everything was in fun.

"I sent her chocolates with lovely cards and wrote her nice letters. She never wrote me in return. I think of her often. It is terrible the way I feel now. In all my 19 years I never felt this way before. Virginia Lee, how can I make her like me again? It is hard to forget her. Right now I wouldn't exchange my thoughts of her for another girl in the world. She means everything to me. Life seems so short not to have more happy hours.

"It took a lot of courage and everything along with it to write this letter to you. Won't you please help me soon? GORDON."

It looks as if your actions at the dances made the girl thoroughly dislike you, Gordon. How in the world did you act? Of course she may be interested in another boy and have promised him not to dance with you. That is one supposition.

At any rate, as you are so enamored, I'd make every effort to get in touch with her and find out what is wrong and promise to do better if she is offended at something you did. Maybe a letter just asking what you have done to offend would get an answer. If that fails, do you suppose you could go somewhere where she is and if she won't dance with you, ask her to please tell you what is wrong?

If you persist you may win her over unless it is another man or she just plain doesn't like you any more, and won't be convinced that you are "not that kind of a boy." In the latter two cases you will have to forget her—at least for the present. It is a good idea, I've found, not to kid too much with people who don't know you very well. Especially if the kidding is rather rough. They sometimes take it seriously, I have discovered.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

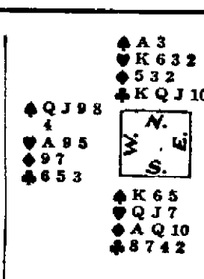
ABANDONING ALL HOPE

Leading your partner's suit, when the declarer's no trump bids show emphatically that he doesn't fear it, is sometimes tantamount to abandoning all hope. If you have a pretty good suit of your own, the declarer may not have it very well stopped. If in addition you possess a likely side entry, your own suit affords much the better chance for successful defense.

North's 1-Club bid here was overcalled by East with 1-Diamond and South injected a bid of 1-No Trump. North took this to



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

2-No trumps and South to 3-No Trumps.

West led the diamond 9, in response to his partner's bid, and declarer was able to drive out the two missing aces, limiting his losses to those two tricks.

If West had led his own suit, he might have defeated the contract. If South won the first spade and started on clubs, a spade would have been returned and, if South held up, a third spade would have cleared the suit for West while still retaining the heart A, holding declarer to eight tricks. It so happens, however, that if South elected to drive out the heart A first, West's only entry would have been knocked out and 4-No Trumps could have been made. In any event, West's best choice was his own suit, as East had only overcalled once and South bid no trump despite the bid.

Repose As Important As Action

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

YOU MAY look wonderful in action, but give a thought to how you lok in repose. It is a cinch to look well on a horse if you are a good horsewoman. You look light and graceful on the tennis court and golf course if you are good at these sports. Of course there is beauty in action, but that is not the main reason why good sportsmen show agility and rhythm. It's simply that they have complete control over their bodies. They know the best and easiest way to make each move—result, a graceful performance.

The way you walk in a new dress certainly determines the dress' success as long as you are in easy, free action. But you are sitting around in your clothes a lot more than you are walking about in them. So it is particularly important to know how to sit well in your new frocks if you want them to be seen at their best.

The line of your costume can so easily be ruined by bad sitting habits and they are anything but attractive. Recall the ugly sight of a woman seated with her knees spread apart. The line of her body is definitely squared off. The effect is not only vulgar, it gives a squat effect. The ideal line is one that takes the eye from shoulder to toe.

Naturally one of the first things to remember about looking pretty while sitting is to take your seat with ease so that your skirt will fall in natural graceful lines Don't plop down any old way; that will necessitate later jumping up and down and skirt jerking.

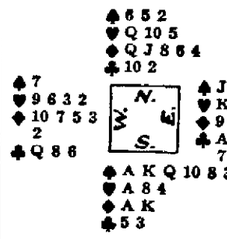
The best way to sit down is to stand before your chair with one leg barely touching the front of it and the other foot slightly advanced. Let yourself sink into the chair lightly, at the same time holding your head and back erect, just as though you were making a curtsy. You don't have to rearrange your dress if you sit down this way.

Clothes Get Disarranged.

If you double over and sit down hard and then squirm around in your chair your clothes get disarranged and you land at a bad angle. When taking your seat slowly, you will find that your skirt falls into its natural folds. Then draw your knees together and forget your clothes. Or, if you wish to cross your knees, which is perfectly correct and quite comfortable, be sure to cross your upper leg well above the knee. This way of leg crossing permits your top leg to drop down easily and in the same direction as the supporting leg.

If you do it the wrong way you will have the under knee pushing the flesh of the upper leg into prominence.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

Two club tricks were cashed against South's 4-Spade contract and East then switched to a diamond. How should South try to make his contract?

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Dicky was as effusive in his answer to Katherine's question as if he had not received her news an hour or two before. It seemed an elaborate pretense on both Katherine's part and his, but I knew that it was justified. We did not wish Hank to suspect that his inherited tendency to cruelty was the reason for our plan to take him to a specialist in neurotic complexes, and her pretense of going to telephone when her errand had been accomplished was only part of the plan to keep him in blessed ignorance of something which revealed to him would have tortured him cruelly.

"Satisfactory?" Dicky repeated. "It's simply the tops. Eleven o'clock suits me down to the ground, and it's marvelous luck that you were able to get that particular man. He's tops in his line, all right"

"Is there anything you'd like me to do?" Katherine asked, looking closely at Hank. "I think, if you don't mind, I'll give Hank a simple sedative and have him lie down until it's time for you to start."

Boys Heard.

She was looking at Hank or she would have seen the frantic signals Dicky and I were sending her. But it was too late. Junior and Roderick had finished their game of checkers in time to give their attention, and their sharp ears had caught her last words. They scrambled to heir feet and rushed over to Dicky, clasping him with their little arms.

I think that Dicky was as glad as I that they did not ask if he were going, though how they came to omit the query was a mystery to both of us. But he was not compelled to choose between the Scylla of telling them a falsehood, and the Charybdis of giving them the truth that he intended to leave for the city as soon as they were safely asleep for the night.

"Hank and Bill are going to the city tonight," he said.

Explains Purpose.

"Why?" they asked, their excited interest shining from their eyes.

"Hank is sick," he said measuredly, "not very sick, but enough so that we think he ought to see a doctor before he goes back to school So Hank and Bill are going up to the city tonight, and will see the doctor tomorrow."

"Gee!" they ejaculated, and their eyes turned to Hank with respect and awe. "Will he have to go to the hospital?"

"No, I don't think so," Dicky answered, and I knew by the patience in his voice that he meant to answer any question they asked as fully as possible in the hope of diverting their attention from the topic of his own departure.

"How are they going to get to the city?" they asked next.

"I don't quite know yet," Dicky answered. "Do you know where there's a Long Island time table?"

"Right over on the desk," they chorused. "But there isn't any train to New York at this time."

Help Find Trains.

"No, but there are plenty from Patchogue," Dicky returned, "and Jim can drive them over. If you'll get the time table for me and look up the trains, I'll be much obliged."

They were off like a shot, almost knocking each other down in their haste to get to the desk. And I marveled that the time table was not torn in two in their zeal to get it back to Dicky.

He made an elaborate show of their finding the listed trains, and finally selected one which would not entail anyone's leaving until after the bedtime of Junior and Roderick. Finally satisfied, they put another question.

"Where are they going to stay tonight?"

Dicky looked blank for an instant, and I interposed an answer quickly.

But I deeply regretted my impetuosity when Roderick said tragically:

"But she's my sister, too. Bill's going along with Hank. Why can't I go, too, and see Mary?"

The dwarf lantanas and the weeping varieties are better for window gardens than the taller kinds used out of doors. The weeping lantanas should be grown in pots on stands or brackets, as they hang down, instead of growing upright. The flowers, somewhat resembling those of the verbena, are borne profusely and hang in clusters all around the plants.

Know Your Tap Routine for Social Success.

Take Easy Home Lessons.

"Who is the girl who tap dances so cleverly?" everyone asks.

And why shouldn't that girl be you? In a few evenings' fascinating practice—with diagrams and clear instructions to guide you—you'll be tapping just as trickily to the tune of your favorite fox-trot, waltz or rumba.

1—With weight on left foot, draw right foot back off the floor by bending right knee. 2—Kick right foot forward by straightening right knee, striking floor sharply with ball of right foot. 3—Carry right foot forward, relaxing ankle.

Now for other amusing steps, like the Slap, Chug, Toe-Tap, and Strut!

Have fun—keep trim and slim—following diagrams and step-by-step directions in our 32-page booklet. All basic tap steps Practice and full-length routines—waltz, buck, military.

Household Hints

By Mrs. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint.

Lamb Chops Baked Potatoes
Green Salad with Tomato Salad Dressing
Asparagus Spice Layer Cake
Coffee or Tea

There are many greens to use in a salad these bright days. Green onions, lettuce, watercress, tender raw spinach leaves, a few small radish leaves. Have you ever eaten them? They are hot and spicy, and if you only use the very small leaves, they won't be so very rough. At any rate, you won't mind it. Nasturtium leaves are also very good in salads.

Today's Recipes.

TOMATO SALAD DRESSING—Twelve ounces tomato juice, three-fourths cup vinegar, one-half cup olive oil, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, three tablespoons grated onion, three-fourths cup sugar. Put all these ingredients in a large jar, and mix them thoroughly. Measure out one-half cup of the mixture, and to this add the following: One teaspoon salt, one teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon dry mustard. Mix this half cup of spiced ingredients until well blended, then add it to the contents of the large jar. Seal the jar with a rubber ring as in canning fruit, and always shake thoroughly before using.

SPICE LAYER CAKE—Two eggs, beaten, one and one-half cups sugar, one cup sour milk, one-half teaspoon each mace, allspice and ginger, two teaspoons boiling water, three cups flour, one-half teaspoon baking soda, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup melted shortening. Pour two teaspoons boiling water over the spices and let stand five minutes. Beat eggs for three minutes, gradually add the sugar, beating constantly. Add the sour milk, beating constantly, and then the spice and water combination. Sift together the flour and baking soda and salt. Beat these dry ingredients into the first mixture, reserving one-fourth cup of the flour mixture to be added later. When the batter is smooth add the melted shortening, and finally the one-fourth cup of the flour mixture. Stir well, then pour into greased layer tins. Bake in a moderate oven about 25 minutes or until layers are done.

Strawberry Pie.

One pie shell, one quart berries, three-fourths cup sugar, one cup water, two teaspoons corn starch. Fill pie shell with largest berries set on stem end. Crush rest of berries and add water, sugar, and the corn starch mixed with a little water. Cook until thickened and pour over berries in shell. Peaks will stick up. Put in refrigerator for about two hours. Serve with whipped cream, garnished with choice berries.

Strawberries and Honey.

Put strawberries in orange cups and top them with strained honey. Serve the berries as an appetizer or dessert.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, July 9.

Romance and adventure, as well as high enterprise and probably intrigue, may be forecast for this day, according to the major planetary operations. Important events may call for a sudden journey and rearranged plans.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of much pleasure and adventure, with important events in both business and private lives. Especially does romantic adventure loom large, calling for radical change and much delightful experience in courtship or marriage, with certain angles of the mysterious or singular.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, romantic, friendly and popular, although it may have certain subtle or peculiar slants to its character. It may have a successful and happy life.

Never allow potatoes to stand in water in which they are cooked. They absorb the water and become soggy.

* * *

When you use molasses in a cake it should always be baked in a moderate oven, never a very hot one.
